“Labor”

Are you a subscriber for “LABOR”? If not, why not?

What is “LABOR”? It is the official weekly publication of the sixteen standard railroad organizations, published at Washington, D. C.

“LABOR’S” mission is to provide a medium of publicity on all matters of interest to organized labor; expose attempts to trespass on the workers’ rights; warn the public against vicious legislation; be of general service to society; and to prevent Big Business from exploiting the public. This being “LABOR’S” mission, quite naturally Big Business is greatly opposed to “LABOR.” Therefore, the reason that the workers and public in general should subscribe in order that they may obtain real information on public questions, uninfluenced by the advertising patronage of Big Business. “LABOR” carries no advertising matter and is entirely the property of organized labor.

If you don't read it, you should. Subscribe now and get your friends to join you in a subscription club.

The Truth About the Railroads---Railroad Wages, and Earnings of the Railroads How Railroad Executives Manip- ulated Earnings Accounts.

The railroad situation has been befuddled by the big financial interests which have concealed the facts and made many statements contrary to fact. Last summer the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce suddenly stopped its investigation of the railroads, just as the Railroad Employees were ready to go on the stand and give the facts. Why was this done? The merits of the railroad controversy should be understood before farmers reach a decision as to the justice of the impending strike and what is involved therein. One of the strongest statements on the subject is that of Mr. Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who over his signature said that when the Transportation Act of 1920 (the Cummins-Esch law) became a law, while there was hope by the employees that all disputes would be adjusted and decisions rendered by the Railway Labor Board would be complied with by the carriers and employees alike, instead of complying with the decisions of the Labor Board the railroads soon began to disregard or flout its decisions, as in the case of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic, the Erie, Pennsylvania, and other railroads. In order to create a dispute the railroads began serving notices on all their employees demanding reductions in pay, thus bringing the matter to the Labor Board, which, in July, 1921, ordered a 12% reduction in wages. Immediately following this many of the railroads served notice on their employees that they would revise schedules and take away rules governing the service which had been in effect for from ten to thirty years, and which were obtained partly by the efforts of the Board of Mediation or Arbitration, of which the neutral members were appointed by representatives of the government.

A conference of general chairmen of Railroad Employees was held in Chicago and a conference determined upon with the railway executives. The railway executives refused any kind of conciliatory measures, thereby requiring a reference to the members of the railway organizations, Mr. Stone says—that is, a referendum vote of all the workers who were employed on the railroads. In October the representatives of the workers on the railroads were convened in Chicago, and a canvass of the vote made showed that over 94% were in favor of withdrawing from the service. The railway executives were notified of this action, and 150 Railway Presidents meeting in Chicago named a committee of five Railway Presidents to meet the executive officers of the transportation brotherhoods. These five railroad presidents, instead of making any concession or suggestion for a settlement, notified the transportation group that the Railroad Presidents had adopted a resolution asking the Labor Board for a further wage reduction of the Railroad Employees. It was not until then that permission was given to the Railroad Employees to leave the service.

Mr. Stone's statement, summarized above, has not been challenged or disproven by any of the Railroad officials. The record of the Railroads is clear. They first flouted the rulings of the Railway Labor Board, created as part of the Transportation Act to adjust differences between employees and the railroads, and they did this repeatedly.

It has been charged that the Adamson law and the increase in wages have greatly increased operating expenses, and that the railroad men are overpaid. Naturally, farmers, who have been so hard hit by the slump in the prices of their products, want transportation as cheaply as possible, and justly so. Some farmers who do not know the facts, feel that Railroad Employees are getting too high wages and rendering less service. The real lesson for the farmers of America in the railroad crisis is that the representatives of the Railroad Brotherhoods and Shop Crafts have honestly and most skillfully served their employees and have fought their just battles for them; while the representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation, of the National Grange and of several other farm organizations, instead of using common sense and common honesty in meeting the problems confronting agriculture, have either stupidly ignored them or, and this is true of both organizations cited, have wilfully betrayed the farmers to the financial interests which have exploited them, and which are the same interests which are in control of our railroads today. The chief attack of the financial interests is being made against the transportation group of Railroad Brotherhoods, including the Locomotive Engineers, Conductors, Trainmen, and Firemen and Enginemen. Much criticism has been directed also against the Switchmen, who have gone along with the transportation group of railroad employees in the present strike crisis.

In 1910, men engaged in engine, yard and train service received an increase of 10% in wages and a very slight increase in 1915. No additional increase was granted these men from 1913 until May, 1918, when the Director General of the Railroads granted increases ranging from 11½% to 39%. When the United States Railroad board in July this year ordered reduction in rates of pay aggregating about $400,000,000, it was naturally expected that freight rates would be reduced an equal amount. This was not done. There have been lockouts, and some railroads have forced their men to strike. The carriers, themselves, before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce investigating the railroads, showed that there was a decrease each year in the number of road passenger employees on Class I roads from 1916 to 1919, amounting to approximately 4%; while the increase in the operating revenues from passenger, mail and express from 1916 to 1918 was nearly $533,000,000, or 62%. The Adamson eight-hour law applied to road passenger employees, that is, members of the organizations now threatening a strike; and while there was an actual decrease of 76 in these employees from 1916 to 1917, the revenue from passenger, mail and express in 1917 was 27.99% greater than in 1916, while the total compensation which these employees received was increased only 4.7%. The daily rate for through freight conductors in 1920 was 57.84% greater than in 1916, while the freight revenue train mile averages increased 69.81%. The daily rates of through freight brakemen were in 1919 48.36% greater than in 1916, while the increase in freight revenue train mile averages was 54.98%. The daily rates of passenger conductors during the last four months of 1920 were 57.3%, and of passenger brakemen 93% greater than in 1916, while the passenger revenue train mile averages increased 102.88%.

While general figures are misleading, yet it should be remembered that hundreds of thousands of employees of the railroads are getting less than $1,750 a year, nearly 300,000 are getting less than $1,200, and scores of thousands of railroad employees are getting only $2.25 to $2.50 a day. The railway employees have thrown down the challenge to the control of our railway transportation industry by the speculative financial interests. As we write this statement, of all the Railway Brotherhoods and Shop Crafts affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, eleven have not decided to go on strike. They decide to do so, but in all probability the strike will be adjusted, and if it is called it will be only a short strike.

Railroads Manipulated Records — Real Earnings Large.

In his testimony before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce investigating the railroads, Dr. Frank J. Warne, representing the 400,000 railway employees engaged in the operation of trains, has just begun to show the real situation, and particularly the financial situation and manipulation of the railroads by the financiers. Basing his criticism on the financial statistics of operation during the Federal control period which witnesses for the railroads submitted this summer, he showed that in 1918 the net operating income received by the railway corporations in this, the first year of Federal control, was not $638,568,603, but in fact $906,500,000, which was approximately the guaranteed standard return by the Federal control act. He showed that in 1919 that although witnesses for the carriers claimed that the net operating income of the railroads was only $454,984,953 it was in fact $451,500,000 greater, a total of over $905,000,000; and in 1920, during two months of which year the roads under Federal operation, the net operating income was not as the carriers stated $61,928,626, but $727,000,000 greater,—a total of more than $798,000,000. Dr. Warne showed how the railroads purposedly showed deficits under Federal guarantee. During the six months' operation by private carriers under the Cummins-Esch law, the roads produced a net deficit of $211,000,000; while in four months of private operation without the guarantee, and although gross revenues were decreased, the roads showed a net operating income of over $226,000,000. The same officials were in control of operations both periods, but the guaranteed dividend of the Cummins-Esch law was not only encouragement, but a mandate for uneconomic and wasteful operation.

Land Grant Roads Beat the Government.

Dr. Warne further showed that no comparison under government and private operation was logical, because the government during the government control of the roads, purposely incurred a deficit rather than increase freight rates to meet fixed charges, believing this a wiser policy for the country during war and the period of recovery immediately following the war. He showed that during the period of government control a large part of the traffic handled by the roads was government and not private or commercial traffic. He showed that under the terms of the land grants to the roads, which total nearly 200,000,000 acres, troops and freight of the United States Government were to be transported for about two-thirds of the rate for ordinary commercial traffic, but under the terms of the Federal control act the government did not get these lower freight rates provided in the land grant act for times of war, so that the railroads profited both ways, in getting a large net operating income, and in being released from a most important requirement of the land grant act.

Ratio of Wages to Gross Revenues.

The claim that railroads spent nearly 60% of their gross revenues for labor is not true. The maximum was not to exceed about 50% under the Cummins-Esch law; while the important fact is that had freight and passenger rates been lower, the volume of freight moved and the passenger mileage would have been much greater, and the gross revenue of the railroads would have been very greatly increased, while the fixed charges and particularly labor charges would not have been materially increased, so that the ratio of wages to gross revenue would have been much smaller. The railroad's policy made the ratio high.

The Only Solution.

The Farmers' National Council, as soon as the railroad strike was imminent, requested the President to restore the railroads to unified government operation in the following letter:

"The impending railroad strike is final and complete though superfluous proof that the Federal Government should immediately take over the entire railroad system of the United States and operate it as a unit. The strike is called because the financial speculators who control the roads have looted them unconscionably, and have been guilty of the grossest mismanagement. Early in May the Farmers' National Council submitted to you the well proven charges of mismanagement and waste under the Cummins-Esch law, amounting to over $1,000,000,000, prepared by the Railway Employees Department of the American Federation of Labor, with the request that you instruct the Attorney General of the United States to investigate the same and to see whether civil or criminal prosecutions, or both, could be brought against those responsible therefor, and whether the government could not recover large sums. This was five months ago.

"The Attorney General has failed signally to end profiteering. The cost of living is nearly as high as at its peak. Those in control of the railroads, after securing government subsidies and subventions under the Cummins-Esch law, have continued their waste and loot, and are determined to reduce the wages of railroad employees, so they may continue their looting of the public under the protection of the Cummins-Esch law. With possibly a few exceptions, the wages of many are too low, and this fact is seriously curtailing the domestic market—that is the chief market—for farm products. A further reduction of railroad wages threatened by the Wall Street magnates and their agents who today control the railroads, will most seriously menace the standard of living of the real farmers of America whose chief interest as farmers is as workers.

"Not a reduction of wages paid railway employees for hazardous and arduous work, but prosecution of the grafting malefactors of great wealth who have been looting the roads, and unified and competent operation of the railroads and squeezing out the water, is necessary to permit a reduction in railroad rates. This can be accomplished only by government operation. Private competitive operation of the roads by speculators for speculators has been a ghastly failure, most notably under the Cummins-Esch law.

"I therefore respectfully request you to address Congress forthwith, and to urge immediate legislation restoring the railroads at once to unified government operation, reducing freight and passenger rates to those in force when the roads were returned under the Cummins-Esch law, and providing that if any deficit result (which is very doubtful with honest management) that such deficit be made up by taxing the concentrated wealth of America's thousands of unpatriotic profiteers. The American people are not in a mood to stand further capitulation by the government to the big financial interests."

It is highly significant that for some reason the Attorney General has not successfully prosecuted proceedings to recover the enormous sums due the government by those who wastefully operated the roads under the Cummins-Esch law, and who have been looting the public treasury. Why hasn't the Attorney General done this? Why, on the other hand, has the administration loaned hundreds of millions of dollars to the roads, and why doesn't it seek to make another loan to them of $500,000,000 without security?

The Lesson for Farmers.

Farmers have their own problems. They will not be solved by hammering down the wages paid railway employees for honest work. The farmers must secure representation in Congress and select spokesmen for farm organizations who will insist upon a sound economic program for agriculture; that is, adequate credit for farmers to enable them to market their products in an orderly way and reduce interest charges of production as well as of marketing, they must establish cooperative buying and selling and direct trading with city consumers; they must compel the government to force the Attorney General to investigate and stop profiteering, as he could do were he determined to do so; and must secure a change in our tax systems so that farmers will not have to pay an overwhelming and unjust proportion of the total costs of National, State and Local government. Speculation in farm and city lands must be stopped. Our ships as well as railroads must be publicly owned and operated for service instead of for profit in order to bring prosperity to Agriculture. This is the program of the FARMERS' NATIONAL COUNCIL.

UNITED STATES RAILROAD LABOR BOARD.

Chicago, Illinois, October 8, 1921.

Addendum No. 3 to Decision No. 222 (Docket 475)

Decision No. 222 (Docket 475)—Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company et al. vs. Railway Employees' Department, A. F. of L. (Federated Shop Crafts).

ENTRY—Relating to the addition of certain specified rules.

Acting under authority of the Transportation Act, 1920, and pursuant to Decision No. 119, the United States Railroad Labor Board hereby promulgates certain specified rules which it has determined to be just and reasonable, in addition to those issued in Decision No. 222, and decides that these rules shall apply to the carriers and the organizations named in said decision and those thereafter included by addenda with the same force and effect as if the specified rules had been contained originally in said decision, except that the effective date shall be October 16, 1921, as set out below, instead of August 16, 1921, as shown in Decision No. 222, and hereby issues the following—

Addendum Effective October 16, 1921.

Add to the rules promulgated in Decision No. 222 (Docket 475) the following:

RULE NO. 1.—Eight hours shall constitute a day's work. All employees coming under the provisions of this agreement, except as otherwise provided in this schedule of rules, or as may hereafter be legally established between the carrier and the employees, shall be paid on the hourly basis.

This rule is intended to remove the inhibition against piece work contained in rule 1 of the shop crafts' national agreement and to permit the question to be taken up for negotiation on any individual railroad in the manner prescribed by the Transportation Act.

RULE NO. 2.—(Rule adopted as substitute for Rules 2, 3, 4 and 5 of the national agreement.)

There may be one, two, or three shifts employed. The starting time of any shift shall be arranged by mutual understanding between the local officers and the employees' committee based on actual service requirements.

The time and length of the lunch period shall be subject to mutual agreement.

RULE NO. 8.—Employees regularly assigned to work on Sundays or holidays, or those called to take the place of such employees, will be allowed to complete the balance of the day unless released at their own request. Those who are called will be advised as soon as possible after vacancies become known.

RULE NO. 18.—When new jobs are created or vacancies occur in the respective crafts, the oldest employees in point of service shall, if sufficient ability is shown by trial, be given preference in filling such new jobs or any vacancies that may be desirable to them. All vacancies or new jobs created will be bulletined. Bulletins may be posted five (5) days before vacancies are filled permanently. Employees desiring to avail themselves of this rule will make application to the official in charge and a copy of the application will be given to the local chairman.

An employee exercising his seniority rights under this rule will do so without expense to the carrier; he will lose his right to the job he left; and if after a fair trial he fails to qualify for the new position, he will have to take whatever position may be open in his craft.

RULE NO. 31.—Seniority of employees in each craft covered by this agreement shall be confined to the point employed in each of the following departments, except as provided in special rules of each craft:

Maintenance of way, (bridge and building where separate from maintenance of way department),

Maintenance of equipment,

Maintenance of telegraph,

Maintenance of signals,

Four subdivisions of the carmen as follows:

Pattern makers,

Upholsterers,

Painters,

Other carmen.

The seniority lists will be open to inspection and copy furnished the committee.

RULE NO. 46.—Applicants for employment may be required to take physical examination at the expense of the carrier to determine the fitness of the applicant to reasonably perform the service required in his craft or class. They will also be required to make a statement showing address of relatives, necessary four (4) years' experience, and name and local address of last employer.

RULE NO. 48.—Employees injured while at work will not be required to make accident reports before they are given medical attention, but will make them as soon as practicable thereafter. Proper medical attention will be given at the earliest possible moment and, when able, employees shall be permitted to return to work without signing a release pending final settlement of the case.

At the option of the injured party, personal injury settlements may be handled by the duly authorized representatives of the employee with the duly authorized representative of the carrier. Where death or permanent disability results from injury, the lawful heirs of the deceased may have the case handled as herein provided.

RULE NO. 50.—Existing conditions in regard to shop trains will be continued unless changed by mutual agreement, or unless, after disagreement between the carrier and employees, the dispute is properly brought before the Labor Board and the Board finds the continuance of existing conditions unjust and unreasonable, and orders same discontinued or modified.

The company will endeavor to keep shop trains on schedule time, properly heated and lighted, and in a safe, clean, and sanitary condition. This not to apply to temporary service provided in case of emergency.

RULE NO. 55.—Work of scraping engines, boilers, tanks, and cars or other machinery will be done by crews under the direction of a mechanic.

RULE NO. 60.—At the close of each week one minute for each hour actually worked during the week will be allowed employees for checking in and out and making out service cards on their own time.

RULE NO. 61.—Any man who has served an apprenticeship or has had four (4) years' experience at the machinists' trade and who, by his skill and experience, is qualified and capable of laying out and fitting together the metal parts of any machine or locomotive, with or without drawings, and competent to do either sizing, shaping, turning, boring, planing, grinding, finishing, or adjusting the metal parts of any machine or locomotive whatsoever shall constitute a machinist.

RULE NO. 65.—Machinists assigned to running repairs shall not be required to work on dead work at points where dead-work forces are maintained except when there is not sufficient running repairs to keep them busy.

RULE NO. 66.—Dead work means all work on an engine which cannot be handled within twenty-four (24) hours by the regularly assigned running-repair forces maintained at point where the question arises.

RULE NO. 67.—Dead-work forces will not be assigned to perform running-repair work, except when the regularly assigned running-repair forces are unable to get engines out in time to prevent delay to train movement.

RULE NO. 68. In case of wrecks where engines are disabled, machinist and helper, if necessary, shall accompany the wrecker. They will work under the direction of the wreck foreman.

RULE NO. 77.—At points where there are ordinarily fifteen (15) or more engines tested and inspected each month, and machinists are required to swear to Federal reports covering such inspection, a machinist will be assigned to handle this work in connection with other machinist's work and will be allowed five cents (5c) per hour above the machinist's minimum rate at the point employed.

At points or on shifts where no inspector is assigned and machinists are required to inspect engines and swear to Federal reports, they will be paid five cents (5c) per hour above the machinist's minimum rate at the point employed for the days on which such inspections are made.

Autogenous welders shall receive five cents (5c) per hour above the minimum rate paid mechanics at the point employed.

RULE NO. 78. Any man who has served an apprenticeship or has had four (4) years' experience at the trade, who can with the aid of tools, with or without drawings, and is competent to either lay out, or repair boilers, tanks, and details thereof, and complete same in a mechanical manner, shall constitute a boilermaker.

Secretary.

RECOGNITION OF THE REPUBLIC OF IRELAND.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7, 1921.
To all National and International Unions and to all Local Unions affiliated to the American Federation of Labor;
Greetings:

In accordance with Resolution No. 117, adopted by the convention of the American Federation of Labor held in Denver, Colorado, June, 1921, your organization and all local unions which may be affiliated thereto are requested to communicate with all members of Congress urging upon them the immediate enactment of such legislation as may be necessary to bring about full recognition of the Republic of Ireland.

The resolves bearing upon this subject are as follows:

Resolved, That the American Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, reiterates and reaffirms this action of the Montreal convention, supports the Irish people in their struggle for freedom and for recognition of the Irish republic; and

"That the American Federation of Labor requests all its affiliated bodies and their local unions to write to the President, the Vice-President, members of the Cabinet and members of the Senate and House of Representatives urging immediate recognition of the Republic of Ireland."

In accordance with these instructions the American Federation of Labor through its executive officers already has brought to the attention of the members of Congress and to the other government officials mentioned in the resolution, the action of the Denver convention as set forth in the resolution.

Sam'l Gompers, president; James Duncan, first vice-president; Jos. F. Valentine, second vice-president; Frank Duffy, third vice-president; Wm. Green, fourth vice-president; W. D. Mahon, fifth vice-president; T. A. Rickert, sixth vice-president; Jacob Fischer, seventh vice-president; Matthew Woll, eighth vice-president; Daniel J. Tobin, treasurer; Frank Morrison, secretary, Executive Council American Federation of Labor.

COAL CONTROL.

The coal profiteers, another wing of the Wall Street army of national and international grafters, have been working overtime and successfully at Washington. They have prevented the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, of which Congressman Samuel E. Winslow of Massachusetts is chairman, from granting any hearings on the Newton Bill—H. R. 20—known as "The Federal Coal Act," which is the first step in securing control of the coal industry by empowering the Federal Trade Commission to acquire full information as to the capitalization, profits, methods, etc., not only of the operators, but also of the dealers and retailers, and to make this information public.

The People's Reconstruction League has been working continuously for a hearing on this bill. We are now at the threshold of a winter of the greatest suffering and hardship in recent years in America. This will probably be a cold winter, but the big interests have been busy with Congress and have been successfully getting one privilege after another, which, of course, means taking money out of the pockets of city workers and farmers. Senator Kenyon of Iowa has just introduced a bill similar to the Newton Bill which has been referred to the Senate Committee on Manufacturers, of which Senator Robert M. LaFollette is chairman. The Newton-Kenyon Bill is essentially the one reported out by that committee in the last session of Congress and stoned to death by the coal profiteers. American citizens should promptly write to their United States Senators and Congressmen urging them to work and vote for "The Federal Coal Act"—the Newton-Kenyon Bill. It is urged also that they write to Hon. Samuel E. Winslow, Chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, and also to Hon. Robert M. LaFollette, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Manufacturers, urging them promptly to report the bill out of committee favorably.

IN MEMORIAM

BROTHER WALTER O'CONNOR OF L. U. NO. 20.

Once again L. U. No. 20 is called upon to pay Tribute to a Brother who has been called away to the Great Unknown. This time it is Brother Walter O'Connor who passed away on October 2, 1921, after a painful illness and who leaves a sorrowful wife and large family behind to mourn.

Therefore the Members of L. U. No. 20, I. B. E. W., do hereby express their sympathy for the wife and family of the late Brother; and be it further

ANNOUNCING THE EAGLE PIPE AND CONDUIT BENDER

The Buffum Tool Company takes pleasure in announcing that it has added to its list of achievements the manufacture of a perfect pipe and conduit bender. It is the friend of every electrician who likes to do the job well; it's chuck full of those improvements that clip the seconds from the time it takes to do the job. you'll find it just what you've been looking for—a perfect pipe bender. Look over the list of the EAGLE PIPE and CONDUIT BENDER POINTS, and you'll find that you can't afford to be without it.

1. It is a portable tool and weighs only 6½ lbs. and can be easily carried in your tool-kit, yet strong enough to use on bench or vise.
2. The Eagle, will positively never kink your pipe or conduit.
3. Will bend any diameter of pipe or conduit from ¼ inch to ¾ inch, on a standard radius and to any desired angle.
4. It requires only one setting per bend.
5. The swinging socket is open on one side allowing the bender to be slipped onto the pipe or conduit at any point.
6. The swinging socket and forming shoe are self-adjusting, and lock mechanically to any size pipe or conduit that the bender will bend; therefore you never need fear a slip or a fall.
7. The handle has five adjustments, allowing it to be set in the most convenient position, to secure the best leverage and purchase. The handle cannot break, as it slides into the socket member ½ inch before the threads engage with same.
8. The Eagle Pipe and Conduit Bender is fully guaranteed to be free from defects in material or workmanship and to give complete satisfaction.

If your local electrical or plumbing dealers are unable to supply you your check or money order for five dollars ($5.00) together with this advertisement will bring one post paid by return mail.

WALL STREET'S SCHEME TO REMIT
DEBTS FOREIGN NATIONS OWE US.

We loaned the nations with whom we were associated during the war about $10,000,000,000, nearly half of it to Great Britain. The accrued interest on these loans amounts to about $1,000,000,000, of which, as of the capital advanced, almost nothing has been paid. Our international investment bankers and financiers, having been prevented from grabbing concessions at the Peace Conference at Paris, have looked on with hungry eyes while England, France, Italy and Japan, since the Armistice which closed the war to make the world safe for democracy, have continued their old method of securing concessions in backward countries and exploiting these people through control of mines, railroads and other profitable investments. Our multi-millionaires and billionaires, who have brought Congress to the point where they propose taking taxes off the rich and loading them on the poor, are now dickering with the foreign countries to which we loaned these ten billions of dollars during the war, offering to remit these loans and all the accrued interest, provided our financiers are permitted to get into the concession grabbing game. That is the one big thing which our financiers hope to pull off at the so-called Conference on Disarmament.

LIFE.

Life is not strife for gold.
Nor medalled fame,
Its years in joy are told—
The hearth fire's flame,
The roses nodding in the sun,
The children's happy feet,
Some little duty done,
A pleasure fleet.

Life is the joy of friends
And birds and trees,
The notes the lover sends,
Old memories,
Neighbors and sunny skies;
And little trips to make,
Tears when a loved one dies
And hearts that ache.

Life is a sum of things,
Laughter and cheery days,
Hope which the morning brings,
The future's rosier ways,
Faith when the clouds are gray,
Grief when the shadows fall;
So we must go our way
Knowing them all.

Life is no narrow span
Flung twixt a goal,
It is a mighty plan
Shaping the soul;
All that the eye can see,
All that the heart can feel,
All that can ever be,
Turns on life's wheel.

CHANGES IN RETAIL PRICES OF FOOD.

The U. S. Department of Labor, through the Bureau of Labor Statistics, has completed the compilations showing changes in the retail cost of food in 10 principal cities of the United States.

During the month from August 15 to September 15, 1921, there was a decrease in all but three of these cities. In Los Angeles there was an increase of 2 per cent; in Newark an increase of two-tenths of 1 per cent; and in Memphis an increase of one-tenth of 1 per cent. In Boston, there was a decrease of 3 per cent. In Cleveland and Detroit, there was a decrease of 2 per cent. In Columbus, Indianapolis and Houston there was a decrease of 1 per cent. In Jacksonville, there was a decrease of one-tenth of 1 per cent.

For the year period, September 15, 1920, to September 15, 1921, there was a decrease of 29 per cent in Memphis; 27 per cent in Cleveland; 26 per cent in Detroit; 25 per cent in Indianapolis; 24 per cent in Boston, Houston, Los Angeles and Newark; 23 per cent in Columbus; and 22 per cent in Jacksonville.

As compared with the average cost in the year 1913, the retail cost of food on September 15, 1921, showed an increase of 59 per cent in Boston and Detroit; 51 per cent in Cleveland; 50 per cent in Indianapolis and Newark; 49 per cent in Jacksonville; 45 per cent in Memphis; and 42 per cent in Los Angeles. Prices were not obtained from Columbus and Houston in 1913, hence no comparison for the 8-year period can be given for these cities.

THE TURN IN THE ROAD. The cry was quickly changed from "Down with Autocracy" to "Down with the Union". The tide of industrial destruction was let loose with tremendous force, and for a time it seemed to sweep everything before it.

Bullets, bayonets, injunctions, damage suits, jails, stockades, bull pens, and denunciation—all used without restraint.

Floods of printers' ink, the phonograph, motion picture screen, the bench, the bar, politicians, bogus patriots, swarms of spies, sneaks, apostates—all and everything that oceans of money could influence and buy—every ounce of power that could be mustered, have been used for more than a year in every conceivable way which skilled brains could think, to raze and annihilate the Unions of the workers.

For more than a year the storm has raged and the structure of labor has stood its force. Some local unions were badly crippled. All National and Inter-National Organizations have reported losses in membership. Wages were freely slashed, and millions forced into the unemployed ranks.

The poverty and misery makers have done their worst. They aimed at the organized workers and the unorganized have felt the full force of the blow.

The terrific onslaught has been checked, but not stopped. The greatest of its potency has been spent, and still labor's forces are intact. The Unions have not dissolved. The policy of labor has not changed. All the essential features of the Unionist Movement have remained unimpaired.

It is apparent the worst has been passed and that the turn in the road is at hand.

The plundering, rapacious forces of greed cannot go further. To do so would imperil the very foundations upon which business in general rests, and the predatory element would find itself in the position of Sampson, who had to pull the Temple down upon himself, that he might destroy his enemies.

By no means, has the cost been slight—both to guilty and innocent. Failures of commercial enterprises according to records compiled by R. G. Dun & Company, have been averaging approximately 1,450 monthly, with millions in liabilities. Total insolvencies reported during August numbered 1,562, with liabilities of $42,904,409.00.

Assuredly the employers of this country are now constrained to understand, as they understand in other countries, that labor unions are here to stay. There have been times in our early history when an industrial depression meant rapid disintegration of many labor organizations, and because of fear and ignorance, a mad scramble on the part of many to disclaim any taint of unionism. But this feeling of fear and ignorance has been replaced with confidence and knowledge, and it is now about as easy to destroy Labor organizations as it is to arrest the movement of the planets.

We have not attempted to conceal the fact that our own particular organization has been seriously affected. All those who could be frightened, bluffed or coaxed out, or influenced by mere assertion, and misrepresentations, have left us. Many, knowing little of our history, accomplishments, and fundamental principles, and who have never been required to stand the test, for various reasons have deserted under the impression that they could temper the blow. Others dropped out because of unfortunate circumstances over which they had no control, and because adequate provision was not made to properly assist them during the conflict.

That we would suffer such losses was fully expected by those who feel they possess some knowledge of our industrial development, and who understood the significance of the events occurring in the year past. It is nothing new. The labor movement in America has experienced twelve other periods of depression. Each time there was a temporary loss in membership in most organizations—the number being dependent upon the preparations made for defense.

No single or group of employers can decide the fortunes and future of the wage-earners. They alone decide, and sow and reap in accordance with their own conduct.

Our losses by no method of reasoning can be attributed to our form of organization. All differently organized and so-called revolutionary movements have suffered most heavily. The movement we have is only the reflex of the intelligence of the membership, who it seems, refuse to be led any faster than what they themselves will go. The labor movement cannot be eliminated except by something better.

In our ranks are thousands of loyal men and women who demand for their support no other pay than the personal consciousness of loyalty to the cause of the workers. They possess courage and a knowledge of industrial and economic fundamentals. They are no longer beginners—they have stood the acid test and bear the scars of many struggles, and could not be frightened or intimidated by the storm.

As a reward for not being with us the unorganized have had their wages cut and then cut some more. The temptation to cut and slash proved too strong for the average employer to resist. He has so effectively applied the lash and boot that those deserting well realize now that the fairy tales, broken promises, and deceit of the boss, are proving poor substitutes for their economic needs.

Some reductions here and there were perhaps bound to occur, but we can safely say that in many cases the workers are suffering losses that could have been avoided had they stood loyally by their unions. Those who failed to join us and those who left us during the heat of battle betrayed their own interests and dragged down many of our loyal members with them.

The recreant employer has completely destroyed the unorganized workers' belief that single-handed he can fight for existence more successfully than organized with his fellows. By the time the deflaters have finished with him, he will realize that his only chance to live better than cattle is by belonging to the trade union movement. This feeling, sweeping over the workers, will make the task of reorganization less difficult.

The tide has reached the high-water mark, and now is turned the other way. The attempt to emasculate the unions has dismally failed.

The timid, uninformed and misguided are again taking their places in the ranks, bringing with them added wisdom as a result of their sad experiences.

An inventory has been taken and the damage estimated. We are now busy making repairs, and true to all modern history, we will, before a distant date, regain all that has been taken from us, and with interest.

OPPOSITION TO INSURANCE PLAN. Reports reaching the International office strongly indicate that the proposed insurance plan has come to the attention of the large corporations employing members of the Brotherhood, and that their secret agents, holding membership in the organization, are actively at work endeavoring to influence the membership to unfavorable action on the matter of adopting the insurance arrangement. This opposition was expected, —in fact considered the only real opposition there would be to the insurance arrangement.

It no doubt will be surprising to many members that large corporations have any interest in the matter and are opposed to the proposition. Their interest and opposition is easily explained; as it is a well known fact that in the recent past, corporations have organized and put into force so-called "welfare associations," which are supposed to provide certain benefits to employees. Usually these benefits are in the form of health and accident insurance and pensions, together with a nominal amount of insurance benefits.

The motives that prompted corporations to provide such welfare associations were, the belief that they would convince their employees that the corporations held a sincere interest in the welfare of their employees and that the employer was philanthropic and generous in his attitude and that the employee believing that he was entitled to health and accident benefits, insurance and pension, would remain with the employer under any and all circumstances and would give more attention to the theoretical possibility of being taken care of when sick or injured and pensioned when superannuated, than he would to the more material matter of obtaining just wages and proper working conditions.

The interests of such corporations are really selfish and thousands upon thousands of employees of such corporations, to their sorrow, have found out that after remaining loyally with a certain employer and having occasion to participate in benefits, some technical reason is conveniently used to prevent their obtaining the benefits they were supposed to enjoy. It is true that all employers' welfare associations are not administered unfairly, but it is true that an employee only receives benefits from the welfare association as long as he remains an employee of the company or corporation that is sponsor of the association.

Corporations view with alarm any movement that will provide their employees with the same or greater benefits, and at the same time give the employees those benefits irrespective of whom they may be working for. Employers attempt to justify their position by stating that they want to save what is known as labor turnover. This, to some extent, is true; but what they really want to accomplish is—to shackle the employee to his task and this can best be done by creating the impression among the employees that if they are good, remain loyal to the company, do not join a labor organization, decline to strike—regardless of how unjustly they may be treated—they will receive certain benefits.

It is interesting to note how frequently corporations, furnishing pension and other welfare benefits, find occasion or excuse for dismissing employees who are about to reach the benefit participation period. It is not unusual for old employees of such corporations to be summarily discharged for the slightest infraction of a company rule, when they are within a few months of attaining the period of service or age that they would be entitled to benefits.

Another favorite practice, as it relates to the health and accident benefits paid by employers' welfare associations, is to charge contributory negligence on the part of the employees, thus depriving them of the benefits they would ordinarily be entitled to.

Insofar as our information goes at the present time, there has not been one sound argument advanced against the adoption of the insurance plan. Even those members of the Brotherhood who are company agents are at a loss for argument. In view of this, necessarily their efforts are largely confined to endeavoring to convince members that the various companies are providing what they claim closely approaches benefits equivalent to those provided by the plan; and point out to the members that the plan only provides insurance and does not provide health and accident or pension benefits. This is admittedly true, but it should be kept in mind that the insurance is the initial of a series of welfare benefits that the membership of the Brotherhood can establish, making themselves independent of all paternalistic associations organized by employers, and in which they will participate no matter for whom or where they work, and the fear of loss of benefits, should they discontinue in the service of certain employers, will be entirely eliminated.

In considering the insurance proposition, members should understand that there is absolutely no one to profit by the adoption of the insurance plan but the individual members and their families.

It is our judgment that if the plan is defeated, its defeat can be attributed directly to the corporation influences, and we hazard the opinion that if defeated, ultimately it will be adopted and that following its adoption within a very few years, the plan will be extended so that every member of the Brotherhood will carry at least insurance protection in the amount of five thousand dollars, or more.

All new movements or propositions naturally meet opposition. Anyone who initiates a movement of any kind naturally expects, providing he possesses a reasonable understanding of human nature, that there will be opposition evidenced, that plenty of critics will be found. When the insurance plan was thought out and presented, this opposition was given full consideration and was anticipated, but no fear was felt of the opposition that would be expressed by the thoughtless, the improvident, employer spies, the penny-wise and dollar foolish. Rather, consideration was given to those who have the interests of their family at heart and are provident, thrifty, prefer independence to dependence, and who have confidence in the Brotherhood, are progressive in views and constructive in actions, and who believe that the organization is of real economic value to the members.

RAILROAD SYSTEMS AND REGIONAL COUNCILS.

The recent Brotherhood convention adopted an amendment to the constitution to be known as Section 1, Article 39, that "Railroad local unions shall form system or regional councils, as the condition of their respective districts may require, either on one railroad or group of railroads."

The law presupposes that every railroad system, where there are enough electrical workers employed, will form and maintain a system council, and where a system council is maintained, the electrical workers on that system shall not be required to affiliate with any regional council.

The regional councils are to be formed by any group of systems that find themselves unable to maintain a council of electrical workers on their respective systems,—this in order that adequate representation and protection may be had at the lowest possible cost to the members. Applications for regional council charters by groups of roads must be accompanied by requests under seal of the existing local unions that are to comprise the regional councils. Local unions on systems that cannot or will not form system councils, must join other locals on systems in forming regional councils, and operate in accordance with the laws of such councils; but local unions on any given system have the option of forming and supporting a system council on the particular system on which they are employed. If they so decide, the matter is to be determined by a majority vote of the membership on the system.

A clear understanding of the letter and intent of the law may save many controversies that will cause misunderstanding, breed ill-will and tend toward disruption.

The Federal Trade Commission has incurred the displeasure of "Big Business" for exposing profiteering and malpractice in general among the big interests. Efforts are now being made to abolish the Commission or curb its activities. So far, Congress has hesitated to act for fear of the noise they would hear 'back home'. The same fear was not shown by a federal court that issued a perpetual injunction restraining the Commission from investigating the coal industry.

American financiers hold at present approximately twenty-five percent of the world's supply of gold and the percentage is rapidly increasing. American workers are fifty percent unemployed. American farmers lost between five and six billion dollars on last year's products, and thus deflation of the actual wealth producers goes merrily on.

The British Labor Party has definitely refused to cooperate with the government in an effort to settle the unemployment problem. British labor assumes the position that they warned the government more than two years ago of the dangers ahead and that the government refused assistance, and that now the condition is of such menacing proportions that the government must shoulder full responsibility in solving the problem.

Samuel Untermyer, attorney for the Lockwood Commission, recently denounced the United States Steel Trust as being the greatest enemy of industrial peace in the country and expressed the opinion that its activities would have to be curbed. This will be no news for organized labor. Labor has known it for many years.

A judge of the Massachusetts Supreme Court recently issued an injunction prohibiting not alone "picketing", but also the payment of strike benefits. If recent news articles are to be believed, it is evident some federal judges have become jealous, as they are credited with enjoining unions from collecting dues and organizing the unorganized. It is truly an age of competition, at least with the courts when it comes to issuing injunctions.

The "Disarmament Conference" called by President Harding is now being referred to by the press as a conference on the "Limitation of Armaments". Before the conference adjourns, it may be known as a conference for "America to remit foreign debts."

The wave of Democracy sweeping over Japan has little affected the absolute rule of the Mikado. The Japanese still believe that the emperor is of divine descent. Only a few years ago, the same belief was held by a large percentage of the people of Europe.

The New York Trust Company is authority for the statement that anthracite coal is twice as high in New York City as it should be. Evidently there are no coal barons among the Trust Company's depositors.

The loss of life in Russia since 1914 through war and famine is estimated at more than twenty million. Foreign missionaries should find these figures helpful in impressing the heathens with the advantages of civilization and Christianity.

The United States Department of Labor through the Bureau of Labor Statistics states that the cost of living decreased 1.1% from August to September. How does this compare with suggested wage decreases in your locality?

The cost of wars from 1793 to 1910 was $23,000,000,000; while the cost of the World War from 1914 to 1918 was $186,000,000,000, the property loss approximating $169,000,000,000. After all, does war pay?

In 1912, the total appropriation for the army and navy was $244,177.00 as compared with $1,422,752.00 in 1921. Keep this in mind when paying taxes.

According to the report of the Census Bureau, there are 4,931,000 people over ten years of age in the United States unable to read or write any language.

The Brotherhood stands unaltered in its determination to resist unfair wage reduction and destruction of proper working conditions.

AS LONG AS THE FLAMES ARE FED.

How long, oh great Democracy—
How long will the night of waiting be?
When, oh, when will the turmoil cease?
How long, how long till the day of peace?

As long as men will play the game
That fans the spark that feeds the flame
Of Hate—of conquering desire—
So long, so long will rage the fire.

As long as Man may strive for self,
May win position, fame or pelf,
And, winning, make his brother lose,
So long will War its own time choose.

As long as Greed may take at will
The fruitful field meek toilers till,
So long, so long will women weep
And Mars the flaming vigil keep.

As long as Lust may choose the knaves

And fools who'll serve like abject slaves
To win the end he's striving for,
So long, so long will life mean war.

As long as Life and Truth are cheap
And men go forth like bleating sheep
To trod the trails where gray wolves whine,
So long, so long will strife be thine.

As long as there is Wrong and Right,
So long, so long will mankind fight—
Till Truth is master of the throng,
Till Right wields greater might than Wrong.

YOUTHS DEFORMED IN BEET FIELDS.

Nearly 1,100 children under 16 years of age are employed in the Colorado sugar beet fields, according to a survey just completed by the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor. The harmful effects of this labor are shown by medical examination, which disclosed that 70 per cent of the 1,000 examined had postural deformities, while 40 per cent were from one to seven years behind in their school grades. Four-fifths of the children examined were under 14, one-fourth under 10 and a number had not reached 8 years of age.

THE OLD MANAGER SPEAKS.

By Berton Braley.

I've handled a pick and a shovel,
 I've sat at a bench in my time,
 I've done heavy work in the heat and the murk,
 I've known all the sweat and the grime;
 And so, when some frosty-eyed expert
 Talks "Labor" as if it was coal,
 "A commodity"—well, I just choke for a spell
 Before I regain my control.

Plague take all this dope economic
 That plats human toil in its charts,
 I tell you that "Labor's" your friends and
 your neighbors,
 It's Folks that have bodies and hearts
 It's fathers and brothers and husbands
 With mothers and sweethearts and wives,
 Who love and who hate and who dream
 and who wait,
 It's real people living their lives.

Now maybe I'm moss-backed and rusty,
 But here's how it lines up to me;
 Statistics will aid in the plans you have made

They're useful to quite a degree,
 But all of your lore scientific
 Will fall down again and again,
 Unless in your brain this one fact you retain,
 That "Labor" means flesh-and-blood
 Men.

In brief, it's a problem that's Human,
 No soulless "Commodity" stuff,
 And the very best plan I have happened to scan

Is just to be human enough;
 And when it is finally settled
 (I fear I won't be here by then)
 It won't be by art of a book or a chart,
 But by Men dealing fairly with Men.

OUTSTANDING FACTS REGARDING TUBERCULOSIS IN THE UNITED STATES.

One death in every 10 is due to tuberculosis.

One death in every 6 of insured wage earners is due to tuberculosis.

132,000 persons of all ages died in the United States of tuberculosis last year. This number is approximately equal to the population of Youngstown, Ohio, or Springfield, Massachusetts; it is the equivalent of three United States Army divisions at war strength.

12,000 of these victims of tuberculosis were children under 15 years of age. This number is approximately 6 times the normal passenger list of a huge ocean liner, such as the Berengaria.

1,000,000 persons have tuberculosis in active form, out of a total population of 105,000,000.

Measured by the Clock.

One person dies of tuberculosis every 4 minutes, 15 every hour, 360 every day. It should be borne in mind that all the figures on this sheet apply only to the United States.

It Kills Producers.

Most of the victims of tuberculosis are stricken in the prime of life. More than one quarter of all who die between the ages of 15 and 45 years are killed by tuberculosis. This may be truly called a needless sacrifice since tuberculosis is preventable and curable.

Twice as Deadly as War.

Approximately 70,000 American soldiers died of all causes in the World War. Tuberculosis killed 150,000 men, women and children in the same period.

The Hidden Enemy.

Tuberculosis always fights from ambush. It is not a spectacular warrior like yellow fever. History is full of allusions to the dread of "yellow jack" when that disease appeared in a city. Yet yellow fever has killed in the United States fewer people in over 120 years than tuberculosis kills in a single year.

To beat such an enemy as tuberculosis one must know something of his lurking places and how he makes his approach. Tuberculosis lurks in environments of bad living and working conditions.

How to Prevent and Cure Tuberculosis.

Fresh air and sunlight, clean nourishing food and sufficient rest are the great preventives and remedies. "Out of Darkness into Light" pictures strikingly the dominating feature of the movement to eradicate tuberculosis. The first step is to bring people—children, workers, everybody—out of dark, damp, poorly ventilated places, into homes, schools, workshops where sunshine and fresh air are plentiful.

Winning the Fight.

15 years ago when the National Tuberculosis Association began its work, the death rate from tuberculosis was 200 in each 100,000 population of the United States. The limited funds for the fight against tuberculosis came from a few contributors.

Today the death rate from tuberculosis has fallen to approximately 120 per 100,000.

The Christmas Seal is a Shield.

The saving of over 75,000 lives per year is due to work made possible by the little Christmas Seal. The purchase of these seals at one cent each by millions of persons provides funds for anti-tuberculosis work. Herewith is reproduced the 1921 Christmas Seal, the 14th to be offered to the American public. Small as it is, the seal has been aptly pictured by artists as a shield between the people and their deadly enemy.

Editor:

The greatest Get Together meeting of Telephone men ever held in this city, was held in Fay Hall on Tuesday September 20, 1921.

The meeting was called together by Chairman Glacken of Local 142 for the promulgation of the co-operative spirit among the Labor Unions as a means of keeping a contented household all at work for the good of the greatest number.

All Locals in the telephone field were represented, consisting of representatives from the Linemen L. U. No. 104, Cable Splicers L. U. No. 396, Inside men L. U. No. 142, Operators L. U. No. 1A, Inter-departmental L. U. No. 8A, Female Clerks and Interdepartmental L. U. No. 202 which shows that all are working as a unit for the betterment of all Telephone workers in this section of the country and will create a powerful influence throughout the United States.

The following were the speakers of the evening, Brother Fitzgerald, Chairman of the Executive Board of L. U. No. 104, Bro. Kane, President of L. U. No. 396, Miss May June, President of L. U. No. 1A, Brother Driscoll, President of the Mass State Branch of the A. F. of L. and Brother Queaney, President of L. U. No. 202.

All gave interesting and forceful talks about the critical period through which Labor is now passing and of the necessity of keeping a solid front and filled ranks to do the effectual work necessary at this time. There were about 1,200 present about half of whom were secessionists.

Editor:

I hope the Journal will be printed next month. I have been waiting for this month's issue but it hasn't come in yet. I understood Brother Charles P. to say it would be issued, anyway I will try to get in a few lines for November issue. The writer attended the 16th convention of the Brotherhood held at St. Louis, September 26th to October 4th, 1921 and I wish to thank the committee of No. 1 for the good treatment they gave us while in their City. I must say that they are a real bunch of fellows, and they did their best to show the delegates a good time and I am sure for one that I enjoyed myself while in St. Louis very much.

I will also state that the Chicago Boys did their bit in welcoming us in their City, some of us had a couple of days stop over in "Chy". They gave us some nice auto rides and showed us some of "Chys" beautiful scenes around the lake fronts, and we appreciated it very much I am sure.

A few lines in regards to L. U. No. 220. Work around here is not picking up any and we don't see any good prospects for this winter. About half of our membership are working the other half, loafing.

We now have a general organizing campaign on. It was opened by Brother H. H. Broach of the I. O. and he gave a fine talk and he sure was welcome to our City, and he stayed over for meeting Monday night and we were glad to have him with us and we are sorry that we can't have him with us oftener. He is always welcome in our city. I will now ring off, hoping this will be allowed space in the Journal.

Fraternally yours,

DISARMAMENT.

(By Frank Duffy, Secretary, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.)

General Sherman said, "War is Hell". Evidently he knew what he was talking about. We all know it is a ruthless destroyer of life, of property, of faith in mankind, and of hope in the future. We also know that it leaves in its wake, sorrow, despair, hatred, discontent, dissatisfaction, suspicion, and a desire for revenge at the first opportunity.

The recent world war was a costly proposition in every respect, no matter which way we look at it.

The loss of life from 1914 to 1918 is given as follows:

Killed in battle.....19,658,000
Deaths by Disease, Famine, etc.30,470,000

Total loss of man power.....50,128,000

The loss in property is estimated at over $169,000,000,000 and the cost in money at over $186,000,000,000.

Comparing the national debts we find the following:

	National Debt 1918
United States	$1,028,000,000
Great Britain	$3,435,000,000
France	$4,546,000,000

The enormous cost of the war to the United States in 1919 and 1920 is estimated at 94% of the entire income of the United States Government leaving only 6% for other purposes.

Is it any wonder then that the recent great war aroused the peoples of all nations to the fact that war must cease, that it must be a thing of the past, that it must never be resorted to again in the settlement of disputes between nations?

The American Federation of Labor, the mouth-piece of the organized wage workers of our country, believes that through just dealing and unselfish service the peoples of all nations can achieve true welfare and greatness. It believes in a warless world. It believes in a sweeping reduction of armaments. It took a decided stand on these questions at the Seattle Convention in 1913 when it urged the Labor Movements of other countries to prevail upon their respective governments to use every means at their command to bring about international disarmament as a preventative of future wars.

At its annual convention in 1914 it pledged itself "to support any plan which has for its purpose the bringing about of the disarmament of all nations to the furthest extent consistent for the preservation of law and order throughout the world."

At its Convention in 1919 it declared that:

"The trade union movement is unalterably and emphatically opposed to militarism or a large standing army. Militarism is a system fostered and developed by tyrants in the hope of supporting their arbitrary authority. It is utilized by those whose selfish ambitions for power and worldly glory lead them to invade and subdue other peoples and nations, to destroy their liberties, to acquire their wealth and to fasten the yoke of bondage upon them. The trade union movement is convinced by the experience of mankind that militarism brutalizes those influenced by the spirit of the institution. The finer elements of humanity are strangled. Under militarism a deceptive patriotism is established in the people's minds, where men believe that there is nobility of spirit and heroism in dying for the glory of a dynasty or the maintenance of institutions which are inimical to human progress and democracy. Militarism is the application of arbitrary and irresponsible forces as opposed to reason and justice. Resistance to injustice and tyranny is that virile quality which has given purpose and effect to ennobling causes in all countries and at all times. The free institutions of our country and the liberties won by its founders would have been impossible had they been unwilling to take arms and if necessary die in the defense of their liberties. Only as people willing to maintain their rights and defend their liberties are guaranteed free institutions.

Conditions foreign to the institutions of our country have prevented the entire abolition of organized bodies of men trained to carry arms. A voluntary citizen soldiery supplies what would otherwise take its place, a large standing army. To the latter we are unalterably opposed as tending to establish the evils of militarism. Large standing armies threaten the existence of civil liberty. The history of every nation demonstrates that as standing armies are enlarged the rule of democracy is lessened or extinguished."

And at its last Convention in June, 1921, at Denver, Colorado, it urged the United States Government to take the initiative or to cooperate with any other nation or nations for the purpose of a general agreement for disarmament both of the army and naval affairs of the world, and called upon the workers in particular and the people in general to aid in every way within their power to put this recommendation into effect.

If disarmament by the nations of the world becomes a reality, then some good at least will result from the late war.

November 11th, is Armistice Day and will be a memorable one in America.

First—On account of the International Disarmament Conference that goes into session on that day in Washington, D. C.

Second—On account of the nation-wide demonstrations that will be held in every city, town, village and hamlet in favor of disarmament.

The members of organized labor will take an active part in these demonstrations and it is only right that they should, for none suffer more from the results of war than do the workers.

TUCSON COOPERATIVE BANK PROSPERS.

The Cooperative Bank and Trust Company, which organized labor of Tucson, Arizona, started last may in order to mobilize the funds of the workers and farmers under their own control, reports a progress for the first four months of business which compares most favorably with that of any private-owned bank in the Southwest. In that time its resources have climbed from $70,000 to $192,591, or an increase of 174 per cent; while its deposits now total over $120,000.

Tucson is a city of only 25,000 population. The Cooperative Bank and Trust Company was organized at a time when general business conditions were far from prosperous, and when two private banks had just failed in the neighboring city of Phoenix. Its splendid success indicates what the workers of other cities can accomplish when once they determine that they will control their own credit power, devote it to productive rather than exploitative ends, and put the profit of handling it back into their own pockets.

COOPERATION TAKES HOLD IN PALESTINE.

The new Palestinian Republic, instituted at the close of the World War in the ancient home of the Hebrew race, has already witnessed the organization of a cooperative society of such strength that it can send its manager to purchase large stocks of supplies from the cooperative wholesale societies of England and continental Europe. The chief industry of this small republic is agriculture, and the cooperative movement has developed among the farmers until it includes over 5,000 heads of families. The headquarters of the Palestinian cooperators are at Joffa, the principal seaport, with six branches covering the main trading centers of the country.

EXPENSIVE MIDDLEMEN LOSE JOBS AS LIVESTOCK GROWERS COOPERATE.

The rapid growth of cooperative livestock marketing by farmers and cattlemen threatens to exterminate the commission agents and speculators who have long battered off the producers by controlling the big terminal markets. The pioneers in this field of cooperation, the Equity Cooperative Exchange, after successful experience in the cooperative marketing of grain, first started competition with the middlemen and speculators on the South St. Paul livestock exchange in October of 1916. Despite vicious opposition, this "farmers' company" has grown in five years from the smallest to the second largest commission firm in the St. Paul yards, and now has a branch on the Chicago Livestock Exchange, which has increased its business 50% over that of last year, although the average increase of business at the Chicago yards is but 1.5%. Six weeks ago the Central Cooperative Commission Association, backed by a Minnesota farmers' organization, also began business at the St. Paul yards, and is already handling 15% of all livestock received in that market. During the past week the Committee of Fifteen, representing the farmers of Illinois, Iowa, and several other midwestern states, has opened offices at the National Stock Yards, East St. Louis, Illinois. These cooperative sales agencies at the terminal markets are supported by approximately 650 farmers' cooperative shipping associations scattered throughout the West. Last year these associations shipped 50,000 cars of live stock, with an average saving of 35c per hundred pounds above the price received by the non-cooperative producers. Cooperative marketing means that they will not only ship together, but that they will sell together, and eliminate the expensive services of the commission agent and the market speculator.

At the beginning of the year there were 34 commission and 54 speculators' firms at the South St. Paul stock yards; with about 100 private commission firms and 500 speculators on the Chicago market. Since that time several of these firms have failed. They are all losing business to the cooperative "farmers' companies", and they will continue to lose it. They belong to a wasteful and discredited marketing system, which cannot compete with cooperative organizations whose purpose is service rather than profit.

LABOR BANK AIDS FARMER COOPERATORS.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Cooperative National Bank of Cleveland recently made a loan of $50,000.00 to the Northwestern Wheat Growers Association, a farmers' cooperative organization, to enable it to market the wheat crop of its members at a fair price, rather than take what the market manipulators were offering.

While the amount of the loan is not large, it is exceedingly important because it marks the beginning of a very significant kind of cooperation between the organized workers and the organized farmers. It also demonstrates the purpose of the Engineers Cooperative Bank to use its large resources to aid producers rather than middlemen and speculators.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION URGES COOPERATION TO CUT HIGH PRICES.

President Harding has had before him for several months a report of one of the ablest commissions in Washington, which not only points out the causes of continued high prices, but also the effective remedies. Since neither the Chief Executive nor Congress has acted to relieve the public from the increasing burden of unfair prices and profiteering, it is time that the people know the facts and take action to protect themselves.

In his address to Congress of April 12, 1921, President Harding, in discussing the consequences of the high cost of living, said:

"Deflation has been in progress, but has failed to reach the mark where it can be proclaimed to the great mass of consumers. Reduced cost of basic production has been recorded, but high cost of living has not yielded in like proportion. The maintained retail costs in perishable foods cannot be justified. A measuring rod of fair prices will satisfy the country and give us a business revival to end all depression and unemployment."

At the request of the President, the Federal Trade Commission made a thorough investigation into the causes and possible remedies for this continued exploitation of the consuming public. The Commission, in its report to the President, states that it finds 5 principal causes for this condition:

(1) "The excessive price of many basic commodities, prominent among which is coal, which vitally affects the cost of other commodities, to say nothing of the effect upon the health and comfort and upon the cost of living and the buying power of the people."

(2) "The existence of typical corporate monopolies, and agreements in violation of the anti-trust laws."

(3) "Open price associations, in many cases not yet challenged by law."

(4) "Interference with the channels of trade by distributors' trade associations, while shutting out new dealers seeking to sell at lower prices, and especially cooperative purchasing and distributing organizations of consumers."

(5) Monopolistic control of importations from foreign countries.

Here is a definite and dependable statement of how both the farmer-producers and the city consumers are being bled white by the monopolists and middlemen who control "the channels of trade". The Federal Trade Commission follows with equally definite recommendations as to how this exploitation can be terminated. It asks power to obtain and publish information as to production costs and profits of industries affecting the necessities of life,—shelter, clothing, food, and fuel. It wants prosecution of the monopolistic profiteers under the anti-trust laws. It calls for the elimination of gambling in "futures" and other "unnecessary reconignment and brokerage operations". It recommends "protection of the farmer against the more closely organized elements with which he deals" by the extension of liberal Federal assistance, especially in securing suitable local markets and proper storage facilities. Finally, the Trade Commission urges "positive encouragement of cooperative associations of agricultural producers' and cooperative consumers' organizations." Summarizing, the Trade Commission says: "The cost of living must come down as a prerequisite to normal business. The first object should be to increase rather than lessen the purchasing power of the consumer. This will afford an immediate and double relief to the agricultural producers."

Regardless of party politics, both consumers and farmer-producers—and that includes all of us—have a right to demand the reason why neither the President nor Congress has acted on these able recommendations. Government figures show that prices and profits are increasing, while wage-workers and farmers are being so badly "deflated" that they cannot maintain a decent standard of living. In fact, instead of aiding the Trade Commission in bringing relief to the people, the executive, the courts, and Congress have rebuffed it, handicapped it, and limited its power. The Department of Justice has failed to bring to book the monopolistic violators of the anti-trust laws. The courts have granted an injunction to the National Coal Association and the Steel Trust preventing the Trade Commission from investigating their production costs and profits.

And Congress has not only failed to give the Trade Commission the necessary power requested, but actually enacted the pseudo-packer-control bill with a provision (alleged to have been drafted by the attorney for the meat trust) destroying the power of the Trade Commission to deal with law violations by the big packers.

There is only one thing left for the people to do. They need not wait until their elected representatives decide to punish the powerful profiteers who prey upon them. Nor need they stand still expecting any "positive encouragement" from Washington in the organization of producers' and consumers' cooperative associations. But they can proceed now, without this encouragement, to root out the profiteers and reduce their cost of living. Following the recommendation of the Trade Commission, the farmer-producers and town consumers can organize cooperatively to prevent further exploitation. They can open direct trading with each other to cut out wasteful middlemen. And unless their national representatives give more heed to their welfare, it is possible that they may cooperate still further to effect a political housecleaning.

INSURANCE PROVIDES CASH FOR EMERGENCIES AND BRIGHTENS OLD AGE.

COOPERATIVE MEAT MARKETS BRING LOWER PRICES AND HONEST WEIGHTS.

Following the example of New South Wales, Australia, in cutting the cost of meat to the consumer by opening state-owned meat markets, the workers of Minneapolis are reducing living expenses by means of their own non-profit meat shops, organized, however, by voluntary cooperation rather than by state action.

Six months ago a group of 400 Minneapolis workers started the Star Meat & Provision Cooperative Association, backed by the members of the Meat Cutters' Union. The necessary money was raised by selling cooperative shares paying 7% interest. Under competent management, the meat market has been a success from the very first. It has provided cooperators with the best meats, honestly weighed, at the lowest possible prices. After six months' operation, the cooperative market has not only paid the share capital invested in its "hire" and divided a substantial saving among its customers on the basis of their patronage, but has also laid by a reserve fund, which it is now using to open several additional cooperative meat markets in other sections of the city to care for its rapidly growing business. As these new markets prosper, their surplus earnings will in turn be used to extend cooperative markets and kindred enterprises throughout the entire city.

GRAIN DEALERS FIGHT COOPERATIVE MARKETING BY FARMERS.

It is recorded in a certain book that when the first Christian missionary went to the Asiatic city of Ephesus and began to convert the idol-worshippers away from their pagan superstitions, the idol-manufacturers of the city raised a furious hue and cry and demanded that this disturber of their profits be banished forthwith from the city; "for," they said, "by this craft we live."

The National Association of Grain Dealers, in convention at Chicago, the center of wheat gambling and "trading in futures", gives vent to a similar yelp as it watches the progress of cooperative grain marketing by the organized farmers of the country. Their venom is especially directed against the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., the Equity Cooperative Exchange, and other large cooperative organizations, which are handling the farmers' grain without the aid of wheat speculators, commission agents, and other parasitic middlemen.

The Grain Dealers, who have profited enormously from the "deflation" of the farmers accomplished by their friends the bankers, are now engaged in a vast and insidious propaganda to destroy these farmers' cooperative organizations before cooperation destroys them. A short time ago it was reported that a quarter of a million dollars had been raised among the grain brokers and speculators to finance this effort to fool the farmers. R. I. Mansfield, head of this special propaganda bureau, has just rendered his report to the Chicago convention. He states that letters have been sent to 206,000 influential farmers attacking the cooperative marketing plan; that 1,400,000 pieces of literature have been distributed to farmers in 18 states; that destructive propaganda articles have been printed in nearly 700 farm journals, magazines, and newspapers; and that a speakers' bureau has been formed to turn the farmers against their own protective organizations. But this is only a starter to what must be done if the grain dealers are to continue their graft. As a matter of self-preservation, Mr. Mansfield urges "a concerted and sustained campaign of education for the producers and consumers." "Failure to follow up this work so well begun," he warns the dealers, "will result in a flood of adverse legislation and in more adverse marketing schemes."

The idol-makers of the Chicago and Minneapolis wheat pits do well to be alarmed at the destruction of their little game by the gospel of cooperation. In their fright they cry, "By this graft we live", and vainly seek to stop economic progress with an avalanche of poisoned propaganda. Meanwhile, the farmers' co-operative marketing organizations continue to grow, one of them reporting an average gain of 299 new members a day.

EIGHTEEN MILLION COOPERATORS IN BRITAIN.

The British Cooperative Wholesale Society has just released figures, based on the census returns for the United Kingdom, which show that out of a total population of 42,767,000 in England, Scotland, and Wales, the cooperative societies are supplying the necessities of life for 18,000,000 cooperators. The 7,500,000 people in Greater London are served by 250 large stores with over 3,000 employees. The eight great cooperative societies in this area are growing so rapidly, according to the Wholesale Society's report, that "the figures of the next census should demonstrate the Rochdale plan of cooperation as the universal provider of London's household needs." One of these societies alone has increased its membership from 27,260 in 1911 to over 91,000 at the present time. What a wild scramble there would be among the "poor" middlemen of Greater New York, which vies with London as the world's largest city, if the cooperative germ should cross the Atlantic and gain the hold here that it has in the British metropolis.

DIRECT TRADING SAVES THOUSANDS FOR FARMER-PRODUCERS AND CITY CONSUMERS.

While both Congress and the doughty attorney-general have utterly failed to punish the profiteers and bring down the cost of living, the campaign for direct trading between organized city consumers and farmer-producers recently initiated by the All American Cooperative Commission is already saving hundreds of thousands of dollars in living costs for the wage-workers, and at the same time giving the farmers a fair price and dependable market for their produce, without the payment of fat commission agents' fees and brokerage deductions. Two State Federations of Labor are now promoting direct trading between the local unions of their states and the organized farmers. Several strong international unions are also actively furthering the plan; while city labor councils and large individual unions throughout the country have adopted direct trading as a means of making the wage envelopes of their members go further in purchasing the necessities of life. One Indiana labor union with 1200 members is arranging to purchase the following commodities direct from the producers: potatoes, apples, onions, smoked meats, canned goods, dried fruits, rice, flour, coal, preserves, fish, and sugar and other groceries.

The All American Cooperative Commission, which acts as the intermediary between producers and consumers, strives to link up the consumers' needs with the nearest producer's supply, in order to reduce freight charges and thus increase the saving effected. Sometimes a cooperative farmers' organization exists within a few miles of a consumers' co-operative store or labor union that is eager to purchase the very commodities it has to sell. The secretary of the Co-operative Commission states, for instance, that he has just received a plea from an Arkansas farmers' union to help them sell sweet potatoes which none of the local commission agents will buy, and which they cannot afford to ship far because of excessive freight charges. At the same time there came to the Commission a request from a workers' co-operative store in a neighboring city for carloads of potatoes and other farm produce.

The direct training movement is growing so rapidly and has proved so effective in relieving both the underpaid farmer and the overcharged consumer that the All American Cooperative Commission has requested Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Secretary of Labor Davis to aid in the movement by immediately collecting complete information from all farm and labor organizations in the country as to the produce available and food stuffs needed, respectively, by these organizations. Such a movement, the Cooperative Commission points out, would give the hard-pressed farmers a little ready money, and at the same time enable industrial workers to increase the purchasing power of their wages. The Cooperative Commission, whose headquarters are in the Bliss Building, Washington, D. C., states that it now has a further supply of direct trading blanks, which it will send to farm and labor organizations and cooperative societies that make immediate application for them.

HERE ARE THE world's best books on electricity, now reduced in price. Prepared for you by 27 of the greatest electrical experts in the business. Not a one-man proposition but all that 27 experts know—backed with a staff of electrical specialists and a free consulting service such as no other publisher in the world has ever offered.

Saves You Time and Money

HELP OLD-TIMERS TOO

Old-timers—Veterans in the electrical game—swear by these great books. They don't use them for study but keep a set handy, just to look things up if they get stuck. They save hours of time by using the books instead of working out problems that come up in a day's work.

FREE MEMBERSHIP

With every set of electrical books, a membership in this Society goes free. This means you

WHAT THE BOOKS CONTAIN

...ve you a better knowledge of electricity than you can get out of these books in a short time. They are a complete course of study and a handy reference guide combined. They cover the newest developments in the electrical field—everything right up to date.

Why These Books are Best

The 27 engineers who wrote these books are leaders each one in a special branch of electricity. Each man knows all there is to know about the particular subject he writes on. This means that you get the combined knowledge of 27 top-notch men. No one school could afford to employ this great array of master electrical minds, yet they all come to you and teach you in their books for only a few cents a day.

Endorsed by Thousands

Well-known electricians and engineers everywhere endorse the books. Night schools, trade schools and eminent instructors use them in their work. Great electric companies buy them for their employee's libraries. Over 50,000 sets have been sold on our free trial plan.

FARMERS COOPERATE TO REDUCE PRICE OF MILK TO CONSUMERS.

From all over the country come reports of how dairy farmers' cooperative organizations are compelling the milk combines that distribute their product to reduce the retail price to the city consumers. The Northern Illinois Milk Producers' Association, whose members market cooperatively as high as $700,000 of milk weekly, has notified the Chicago milk combine to give the people of that city 10c milk, or they will cut off the supply, organize their own cooperative distributing company, and furnish the consumers at a fair price themselves. At the same time, the Southern Illinois Milk Producers' Association has contracted with 4,000 producers to market their milk directly to the consumers of St. Louis, and will have their new distribution plant at East St. Louis, Illinois, open for operation by November first. Out in Spokane, Washington, the Empire Producers' Cooperative Association has started a merry milk war by delivering milk direct to the consumer at 10c a quart. Unlike the greedy middlemen, the farmer-producers realize that they and the consumers have a common live-and-let-live interest between them, and that the more efficiently and cheaply they distribute their produce, the more the consumer can afford to buy.

We have already recorded the remarkable success of the Franklin Cooperative Creamery in Minneapolis, which brought down the price of milk from 15c to 10c in that city. In addition to this flat reduction, which benefits equally all consumers in the city, the Franklin Cooperative Creamery reports a net saving of nearly $20,000 which it has earned for its members in four months, with the business growing at a rate that will reach a million dollars within a year.

Representatives of the Farmers' National Council, the National Board of Farm Organization, the National Milk Producers' Federation, the Peoples' Reconstruction League, Railway Brotherhoods and other Labor organizations tried to see Senator Penrose while the Revenue Bill was being considered by the Senate Finance Committee, to request a public hearing, but Senator Penrose refused even this courtesy! The representatives of most of these organizations and many others are sending a letter to every member of Congress, urging the principles which should be incorporated in the Revenue Bill. These include:

The retention of the Excess Profits Tax with perhaps some Administration changes until the full money cost of the war has been paid, retaining the highest rates of tax now imposed upon personal incomes until the full money cost of the War has been paid, repeal of Consumption Taxes such as those on transportation, on admission, and purchases of clothing and ordinary articles of consumption, and a rapidly progressive tax upon large estates or inheritances and upon transfers of property among the living. The letter suggests that the Estate and Transfer Tax should yield at least two to two and a half billion dollars a year, and it opposes any sales tax of any nature whatever.

It remains to be seen whether the Congress of the United States will flout the purpose and wishes of the organized producers of wealth on farms and in factories, mines, trade and transportation, but it is regarded as very doubtful whether they dare do this, and whether they will go along with the Administration.

INSURANCE KILLS WANT AND WORRY, CANCELS DEBTS AND GIVES COURAGE IN LIFE'S STRUGGLES.

There are 3,045 cities in the United States that own and operate their municipal water works—over twice as many public and private plants. There is a reason.

THE REVENUE BILL.

The wicked scheme of Wall Street, which controls an overwhelming majority of the members of the Senate Finance Committee, to unload the whole cost of the war from the profiteers and concentrated wealth to the backs of the unemployed, the underpaid, and of farmers who are lucky if they make a bare living out of the most arduous and hazardous toil on record, has received a check. Some members of the Republican Party are not entirely the agents of Wall Street. Some members of the Democratic Party similarly have not bowed their knee to the golden calf of Wall Street. They are objecting to having the United States Congress become a two-chambered annex of Wall Street. American people may congratulate themselves that Wall Street's control over Congress has been challenged by a few Senators and Congressmen of both parties who demand a heavy tax upon inheritances and upon transfers of property among the living; the retention of the surtaxes upon incomes and of the excess profits tax; the repeal of consumption taxes including the tax upon transportation; and taxation of the value of land and other natural resources held for speculation. This is the program of the Peoples' Reconstruction League and the Farmers' National Council. The fight is on in earnest in the National Capital between the exploiters and profiteers, and the people. Every American citizen—man and woman—should promptly write both his United States Senators and Congressmen demanding a tax upon inheritances and transfers of property which will yield at least from two to two and one-half billion dollars a year until the full money cost of the war has been paid, and endorse the entire revenue program of the Peoples' Reconstruction League.

TELLS LABORER AND FARMER KEEP OUT OF POLITICS.

Gov. Miller told a State Fair crowd at Syracuse that farmers and laborers had no business in politics. He said they had no right to seek legislation for their own interests, proclaiming that when they attempt to enter politics "they attempt that which is hostile to American institutions and is certain to result to their own disadvantage."

While Gov. Miller denied the right of farmers and laborers to enter politics, he said nothing about the big interests, who not only are in politics knee deep, but who maintain expensive lobbies at the national and at the different state capitols all during the legislative sessions. He would prevent farmers and laborers from seeking legislation in their own interests, but the Wall Street interests, the manufacturers' association and the chambers of commerce can direct all the legislation that is presented to the different legislatures. According to Gov. Miller, farmers and laborers should not be permitted to make suggestions regarding legislation, but he was strangely silent concerning the dye monopoly—for one of which concerns he was counsel when nominated for governor—which has working at present the highest paid and the most active lobby at Washington that the country has ever seen.

There was dissatisfaction among Syracuse and Central New York labor men, resulting directly from this Miller paragraph.

"Labor organizations are necessary, because under existing conditions the individual employe cannot alone deal on terms of equality. For the same reason farmers' organizations are necessary and, for that reason, both are permitted by the state. But the sole reason and the sole justification for such organizations are economic, and when either seeks to exert political power, they attempt that which is hostile to American institutions and is certain to result to their own disadvantage."

MINIMUM WAGE LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES.

The fixing of wage rates by act of law is a practice that is quite general in a number of countries where men as well as women come within the scope of the laws. In the United States, minimum wage laws are found in twelve States, the District of Columbia and Porto Rico, but they are applicable only to women and minors. The U. S. Department of Labor through its Bureau of Labor Statistics has just issued as Bulletin No. 285 an account of the minimum wage legislation of the United States, including its legal construction and its operation in the different jurisdictions.

Rates are usually fixed by a board or commission, though in Arizona and Utah the law itself names the rate. The industries covered may be few or many, according to the terms of the law. Wisconsin covers all employments with a single order, while California has nine and Massachusetts fifteen orders applicable to as many industries or classifications.

The entire history of this legislation has been marked by attacks on its constitutionality, but the supreme courts of five States have upheld their laws as valid, with no adverse decision by such a court. There still is evident a disposition to regard the laws as interfering with the "freedom of contract", which of course they do, as does practically every "labor law", notably those fixing the hours of labor, compensation of workmen for injuries, etc., which have been fully vindicated in the courts. Moreover, the survey by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and the reports of administrative commissions indicate a very general acceptance of the law by employers, many of them giving it a hearty approval, as to both principles and results.

The economic effect of these laws is said to be a general wage increase in favor of the persons affected by them, though without any apparent tendency for the minimum fixed by legal process to become the maximum or even the standard wage, although the laws have largely done away with wide variations in wages paid for identical services. The employment of younger children is said to have been restricted in some cases,—a result that is regarded as beneficial; in view of the desirability of deferring employment in favor of school attendance.

The first law of this type enacted in the United States was in Massachusetts in 1912, eight other States following in 1913. Questions of constitutionality caused a check in legislation, from which the movement has hardly recovered, though three laws were enacted in 1919. The fact of the current reorganization of industry is an argument both for and against action, employers feeling that there is need of free and rapid adjustment to meet changing conditions, while the proponents of this form of regulation regard it as necessary in an unusual degree in order to steady conditions that are in danger of working undue injury to the group of workers for whose benefit such laws are enacted.

Some of the big packers are endeavoring to get the Attorney-General of the United States to terminate the consent decree entered by the Courts between Attorney-General Palmer and the Packers about two years ago, except as it applies to the stockyards. The purpose is to enable the packers to continue their monopolization of the food supply of the country, in which they were so rudely interrupted by the through-going investigation of the Federal Trade Commission. The Peoples' Reconstruction League has written the Attorney-General, urging him not to make any modification of the decree which would interfere with the rights of the American people—both producers of live-stock and consumers of live-stock products.

CAPITAL IS CAPITAL THE WORLD OVER.

That the policies and practices of monied interests differ little the world over is evidenced by the address of Mr. A. G. Cameron at the opening of the British Labor Party Conference at Brighton, England.

Mr. Cameron's speech as reported by the Woolwich Pioneer, is reproduced and it is interesting to note that much the same problems confront the British labor movement that confront organized labor in America.

"Time has brought us to our twenty-first annual conference, and those who remember the early days in the life of the Party recognize the changes which have taken place since the formation of the National Labour Representation Committee in the year 1900, and on this, our 21st birthday, we can appreciate and feel grateful to the men and women who were the pioneers of our movement, who, having devoted many years of faithful service prior to the birth of the Party, exercised the greatest vigilance in the following years to prevent it being wrecked by those who could not—or would not—see the possibility of anything good coming from a party comprised of Socialists and trade-unionists. In this connection much of the success of our movement was due to the strenuous efforts of the pioneers of the Independent Labour Party, the father of which was our beloved comrade the late James Keir Hardie—long may his faith inspire our men and women—Keir Hardie, who, whilst other Labour men had succeeded in entering Parliament before his time, was the first truly independent Labour representative to be elected by the workers, West Ham having returned him in the year 1892, which constituency he represented until the year 1895.

Immediately following the formation of the Labour Representation Committee the movement in the country began to grow. Committees were established in all the large centres, and a vigorous propaganda carried on with the object of converting the workers to the new idea and weaning them away from the orthodox parties; and although by the time we were faced with a general election in 1906 the total strength of the Labour Party in the House did not exceed five members, the Party returned after the general election with 29 members pledged to be independent of all other parties. The success of our candidates at the polls encouraged and stimulated the whole movement, as, although they were only 29 in number, they represented Labour asserting itself, challenging the capitalist and privileged classes on the political field, and by their ability and capacity commanded the attention of Parliament and the nation. (Applause.)

This excited the active opposition of all reactionary forces. Various kinds of anti-Labour organizations sprang up, backed by the financial support of capitalists who were determined that at all costs the growing power of Labour had to be checked, and who believed that organised could kill a movement which had come into being as the result of great spiritual forces inspiring men and women to devote their energies to the work of changing the social and economic conditions of the people, and eventually wiping out a fundamentally wrong system of society (Hear, hear.) The number of anti-Labour associations which came into existence during the first few years of our Party was a testimonial to the representatives of Labour, and proved that labour had at last entered the right political channel. Many important reforms were obtained between the years 1906 and 1910, and since that year, which were appreciated by the workers of the country; but many are now inclined to forget the real value and effect of such reforms and the method by which they were obtained. (Hear, hear.)

Misrepresentation of the Aims and Objects of Labour

It is 50 years ago—1871—since the Trade Union Act was placed upon the Statute Book. It was the presence of the Labour Party on the floor of the House of Commons in 1906 that won back for the trade-unionists rights which were taken from them as a result of the Taff Vale decision. Many other reforms of a far-reaching character were obtained which would never have seen the light of day were it not for our own Political Labour Party. (Hear, hear.) The need of making

Provision for the Aged and Infirm, the right of men and women to assistance during periods of unemployment or sickness has been admitted; and, notwithstanding the fact that the provisions made were—and are now—quite inadequate, having established the principle that men and women must have provision made for them in times of need, the State will eventually be compelled to recognize the full demands of Labour. (Applause.) Such recognition, however, will come only when the workers exercise intelligence in the selection of the persons sent to represent them in Parliament, where all such demands are dealt with—and here I would remind you that if argument and logic determined the fate of all issues raised in the House of Commons, we would not be suffering to the extent we are to-day. The efforts of our Party would have established the Co-operative

Commonwealth many years ago. But the fact remains that even if our Party were possessed of all the brain-power to be found in the political movement it would be almost helpless without numerical strength. It is numbers that count when a division is taken on any political question, and we should not forget—neither should our members of Parliament—that every political question affects the lives of the workers.

Prior to that fateful month in 1914 there were indications that the workers were responding to the appeal of the organised Socialist and Labour movement; and none knew it better than our opponents, none feared the coming change in the minds of the workers more than they. Consequently, it was with hope we looked forward to again testing our strength on the political field, believing that our appeal would meet with greater success than ever before; but the sounds of war which swept like thunder throughout Europe, drowned all appeals, and our people with the rest—whether in the North, the South, the East, or the West—heard nothing but that call to arms, the response to which, we were told, would put an end to military rule and bring freedom to all the peoples of the earth. Many of our people believed and did what they honestly considered to be their duty. Many of our people, however, did not believe, and they also did what they conscientiously considered to be their duty. For a time there were many sad hearts, and our movement, divided as it was, suffered in consequence; but circumstance soon made it clear that our movement could not long remain divided, and November, 1918, found us a party fighting the same old type of opponents, amongst whom were many that the war made rich—the most unscrupulous individuals who ever attempted to enter the House of Commons. (Applause.) Many of them are there now who, as Prime Minister, endeavours to attract attention of the public from the misdeeds and misgovernment of the Coalition by attacking the Labour Party, which, he tells the public, is a danger to the State, and appeals to wealthy Liberals and Conservatives to unite under one banner in order more successfully to crush the aspirations of the workers. This, in my opinion, is a tribute to our movement, and Labour can cheerfully accept the challenge. (Applause.)

What justification have the Prime Minister and his friends for assuming that they and they only, are capable of governing our country? (Hear, hear, and cheers.) The policy of the Coalition Government—indeed the policy of any Government—must be judged by results. Judge by results, and the Coalition stands condemned, because to-day we find nothing but chaos and economic ruins staring us in the face. (Hear, hear.) The lock-out of the miners, which has lasted thirteen weeks, the suffering endured by the men and their families, and the increased volume of unemployment consequent on the getting of coal having ceased, are the results of bad government. The fact that in 1919 the Government agreed with the miners to the appointment of a Commission to inquire into and report on the ownership and control of coal mines and repudiated their own Commission on it recommending State ownership, is sufficient to prove that the Coalition is in power to represent, and will continue to promote and protect, the interests of the coal-owners at the cost of the collier and the community. (Loud applause.) Private ownership of the coal mines is economically and morally wrong and should not be permitted to continue holding up the needs of the nation; therefore, public ownership of the coal industry, controlled by the community and the miners, is demanded by the Labour Party. (Cheers.)

Just as the Government failed to fulfil pledges given regarding coal, so have they failed in dealing with the Housing of the people—one of the most urgent problems of the day. All kinds of reasons have been put forward to explain away the delay in meeting the needs of the public, and, as usual, an effort has been made to place the responsibility on the shoulders of the trade-unionists of the industry. Facts, however, must not be forgotten when discussing the housing problem:

For nearly five years housebuilding was compulsorily stopped.

For nearly five years housebuilding craftsmen were compulsorily employed preparing materials of destruction.

To-day there is a Shortage of Close on One Million Houses, and the responsibility for delay in supplying the houses rests with the Government. (Cheers.) Because:

The Treasury, to begin with, would not raise the necessary finance.

Manufacturers were allowed to raise the prices of building materials.

Municipal enterprise was not sufficiently encouraged or supported.

The Government would not give priority to the building of cottages after the war as some compensation for preventing the building of cottages during the war.

At the close of 1918 the Government should have insisted on all available labour and building materials being used for the erection of houses to meet the needs of the people. Most commercial and all luxury work should have been held up—would have been held up by a Government that believed in and knew how to set about the problem of Reconstruction.

The Finance required should have been raised by the Government, instead of setting the municipalities in competition with each other for loans of money, because Housing is no longer a local problem: it is a national one, and of premier importance. (Cheers.)

In demanding that houses shall be provided as speedily as possible we must not confuse quantity with quality; in constructing a house we must have good design, good planning and craftsmanship—then the building will be really good—not showy or obtrusive, but lending itself to and in sympathy with earnest, sound work, and those who occupy it will be unconsciously influenced for the good.

Can we hope for such houses from those who are in power? The answer is "No." Only when the workers obtain political power shall the question of housing be dealt with in its relation to health, education, comfort, and happiness. And to that end Labour must now insist on the State being responsible for financing, compelling, and directing the local public bodies to provide up to the maximum number of well-built, comfortable houses for the community. (Applause.)

Not within the memory of anyone present has trade been so bad as it is to-day.

Over Two Million Men and Women Unemployed;

and the head of the Government, when questioned on the problem, could only suggest—emigration! Much of the unemployment that obtains throughout these Islands is due to the fact that whilst the British Government, with the Governments of France, Italy, and Belgium, have been endeavouring to conclude a Military Peace they have also conspired how effectively they could wage an economic war that would permanently cripple the Central Powers, give to capitalists of the nations represented by the Supreme Council a strangle-hold over the economic resources of Germany, and by weakening her materially succeed in subduing the spirit of her people, the majority of whom are no longer imbued with military or capitalist ideas, Germany being one of the nations in Western Europe that is rapidly forging ahead towards the Socialist State. Progress in that direction is anathema to our Capitalist and Imperialist friends. But it is too late: they cannot now save themselves, as everywhere

The Desire for a New Social Order is rapidly bringing the support of the most intelligent people of this country over to the Socialist and Labour movement. (Loud applause.) The great mass of the workers, too, if they do not all thoroughly understand the economics of war or the economics of industry, are beginning to understand the bad, mad policy of the Allied Governments, as manifested through the reparation clauses of the Peace Treaty, the conditions of which are being imposed on Germany with disastrous effect on the economic conditions of the workers of this and every other country in the world. (Cheers.)

You cannot impoverish any one section of the community without such impoverishment having its effect on the whole community; neither can you impoverish any one nation without the effects of it spreading like a plague to every other nation in the world. This is just what has happened, and we are now faced with the most serious economic crisis in history, and weekly doles of unemployment pay will not save us, neither will they restore our lost trade, nor reorganise our commercial and industrial system. (Hear, hear.)

As an illustration, take one of the key industries. Unemployment in the shipbuilding industry can be attributed principally to the reparation clauses, where it is stipulated that Germany must hand over to Great Britain practically the whole of her mercantile shipping, plus not less than 200,000 tons of new shipping each year. This obligation Germany has fulfilled, with the result that we have to-day over 1,000,000 tons of effective shipping lying idle in British ports, and tens of thousands of British shipbuilding operatives walking the streets unemployed.

Many operatives, as well as employers, in the shipbuilding industry were amongst those who demanded that Germany should be compelled to pay up to the last farthing. Germany is paying—ships being a part of the indemnity imposed upon her—and as a result the policy of our Governments, and the Imperialists of France, is injuring our country more than it is injuring Germany. Even shipbuilders are beginning to admit that the policy is a mistaken one, and are anxious that the Government should cease accepting any more ships from Germany, also, if possible, return to Germany some of the ships that have been taken from her; because the effect of the reparation clauses is speedily ruining our shipbuilding industry, one of the greatest assets possessed by this country.

As it is with shipbuilding so it is and will be with other industries affected by the reparation clauses of the Peace Treaty, and the number of unemployed men and women will increase without any attempt being made to deal effectively with the problem.

The fundamental truth is that the supporters of capitalism have proved to the world that so long as industry is run on its present lines the workers will have to submit to periods of unemployment and periods of over-employment, and that the Present Capitalist System Must Go before there can be any permanent solution. (Applause.) The workers, by the strength of their trade unions, may from time to time obtain improved conditions of employment, but until they obtain possession of the means of producing wealth namely, the land, the mines, the railways, shipping, factories, and workshops—they will remain dependent on a small section of the community providing them with employment. In other words, they will continue to be at the beck and call of those who own and control the capital of the country; they will, when the capitalists decide, be allowed to apply their labour to the production of wealth, but they will not be permitted to control its distribution.

Before the workers will be permitted to effectively control industry, or the distribution of the products of industry, they will first require to own the machinery and materials of industry. Such ownership will only be acquired when we capture political power; and political power will come only as a result of hard thinking and intelligent action at the ballot box. Political power will also enable us to control credit, money, banking, and everything which is fundamental to a nation's foreign policy, to the cause of most, if not all, wars from which the workers of the world have suffered. (Hear, hear.)

And here I should like to remind our opponents that not in the history of the world has it been known for the workers of one nation to consciously arrange a war against the workers of another nation. The workers, taking them in the mass, are international in spirit, and were it not for the ambition and arrogant pride of the ruling classes, war would never be waged between the peoples of the earth. (Applause.) The spirit of Internationalism must be fostered and developed. The Internationalism of Labour must be understood and practiced if Labour would prevent future wars. It is almost impossible in these days for one nation to be independent of other nations; in any case isolation is not to the good of a nation, hence we find the foremost persons in the world of Art, Politics, Science, Literature, and Learning, working for the promotion of friendship and co-operation between the nations, without which real progress on humanitarian lines will be impossible. Any attempt to crush the spirit and sentiment of a nation is against the spirit of Internationalism, and tends to prevent the necessary understanding which should exist between nations that desire freedom and peace for the peoples of the world.

The Treatment of the Irish Nation. by the present Government has disgusted and shocked all thinking men and women of Great Britain and amongst the nations of the world has created nothing but contempt for British methods of government. (Applause.) I deplore the lamentable loss of life and destruction of property which has resulted from the present struggle in Ireland, and I am convinced that it is not necessary to take the life of any human being in order to promote the welfare of humanity; but I cannot forget—I shall never forget—what I saw in Ireland when I visited that country a few months ago, since when the attempt to govern Ireland from Westminster and Dublin Castle has gone from bad to worse. For the state of affairs existing in Ireland the Coalition Government is responsible, and should know by now that spirited people will not stand idly by whilst their fellow men and women are being brutally murdered without retaliating on those responsible for such crime. I have no desire to go into details. It has been well proven that the policy of destroying life and property was initiated and acted upon by men for whom the Government was responsible, and many civilians were shot before the Crown Forces had lost a single life. Consequently, peace will not obtain in Ireland until the armed forces of the Crown are recalled to within the shores of Great Britain; immediately that is done the people of Ireland will maintain order in their own country. Irish Labour movement is striving for and is anxious to establish a lasting fraternity between the peoples of Great Britain and Ireland; but the present Government and its supporters stand in the way.

The aspirations and ideals of Irish Labour are the aspirations and ideals of British Labour, because, as so splendidly expressed by the great Irish patriot, Lallor, on behalf of his countrymen:—"A nation's sovereignty extends not only to all men and women of the nation, but to all the material possessions of the nation, the nation's soil and all its resources, all wealth-producing processes within the nation. In other words, no private right to property is good as against the public right of the nation. The nation is under a moral obligation so to exercise its public right as to secure strictly equal rights and liberties to every man and woman within the nation. . . . No class in the nation has rights inferior to those of any other class. No class in the nation is entitled to privileges superior to those of any other class. . . . To insist upon the sovereign control of the nation over all the property within the nation is not to disallow the right to private property. It is for the nation to determine to what extent private property may be held by its members, and in what items of the nation's material resources private property may be allowed. A nation may, for instance, determine, as the free Irish Nation determined and enforced for many centuries, that private ownership shall not exist in land, that the whole of a nation's soil is the public property of the nation. . . . There is nothing divine or sacrosanct in any of these arrangements; they are matters of purely human concern, matters for discussion and adjustment between the members of a nation, matters to be decided on finally by the nation as a whole; and are matters in which the nation as a whole can revise or reverse its decision whenever it seems good in the common interests to do so. In order that the people may be able to choose as a legislation and as a government men and women really and fully representative of themselves, they will keep the choice actually or virtually in the hands of the whole people. . . . They will, if wise, adopt the widest possible franchise—give a vote to every adult man and woman of sound mind. To restrict the franchise in any respect is to prepare the way for some future usurpation of the rights of the sovereign people. The people, that is the whole people, must remain sovereign not only in theory, but in fact. . . . It is in fact true that the repositories of the Irish tradition, as well the spiritual tradition of stubborn physical resistance to British political domination, have been the great faithful, splendid common people; that dumb multitudinous throng which sorrowed during the penal night, which bled in '98, which starved in the famine, and which is here still—what is left of it—unbought and unterrified. Let no man be mistaken as to who will be lord in Ireland when Ireland is free. The people will be lord and master." What more can be said on behalf of the Irish nation? I can only appeal to British Labour to do that which is right, demand and insist that the British Government shall cease talking about defending the rights of small, weak nations; demand that the Government's murdering expedition in Ireland shall cease at once, and that the system of government desired by the people of Ireland shall be secured to them. (Applause.)

The same appeal is made on behalf of the people in Egypt and India, where the agents of the Government have practised with equal brutality the Coalition policy of coercion, and the Indian people will for many years remember the murder of innocent unarmed civilians, the crawling and flogging orders of the British military authorities, and although they are not now retaliating by taking life or destroying property, they may be goaded into a war of defence, similar to that obtaining in Ireland.

India, with its 300 million population is answering British interference by quietly boycotting goods of British manufacture; and, here, again, we find how the policy of the Coalition is affecting the economic life of the workers of this country. The peoples of both Colonies had long been promised political reform which would give to them greater control over their own affairs, and believed that after the sacrifice of thousands of lives in assisting this country in the late European war their people would not be denied some measure of freedom at the hands of the victorious nations; but they, like the workers here and elsewhere, find to their sorrow that in the opinion of our rulers freedom for the mass of the people is a danger not to be encouraged.

One cannot but feel disappointed and disheartened at the apathy and

and women towards the conditions of life obtaining amongst nations outside of Great Britain, and one could imagine such a state of mind being due to the skill which our opponents have exercised in preventing full knowledge of our foreign affairs being made possible to our people; but, on the other hand, are not the mass of the people more or less indifferent to the life conditions which obtain within our own shores? Consequently, the bad, mad foreign policy of the Government is not understood, suspected, or objected to as it should be by all intelligent citizens. (Hear, hear.)

A few more sentences and I conclude.

Labour must make it known to the world that, being determined to complete the journey commenced long years ago, there cannot now be opened up any by-path or side lane to attract us off the straight road which leads to the Socialist State. It should be clearly known that we recognize our opponents, those who uphold the present order of Society, to be, just as we are ourselves, creatures of circumstances, victims of a bad system. We feel, too, that many of them conscientiously believe it to be in the interests of the world that the capitalist system should continue and that they individually desire that all persons shall have a fair field and no favour.

We are prepared to grant to them the maximum of credit for what they have attempted to do under the present system; but we must ask that they will study the history of capitalism, take a careful survey of the whole world as they find it to-day, and then ask themselves if the peoples of the earth have any cause to be grateful for what capitalism has done for civilization. (Hear, hear.)

The Whole Record of Capitalism is Bad. During the last few years 7,000,000 men of all nations were called upon to sacrifice their lives; 18,000,000 men suffered to be maimed and in the process a debt incurred of 40,000,000,000 sterling, Great Britain's share alone being over 7,000 million, part of which will have to be met by the dependents of the wounded and the dead; and, arising out of this diabolical outrage on humanity are countless national and international problems for which capitalism is responsible, and which capitalism will fail to solve.

Therefore, Labour challenges those who bolster up the present order and appeals for the support of the people, so that an opportunity may be given to prove how it is possible for Labour, by good and efficient government, to bring peace, prosperity, and happiness to every corner of these islands, and also demonstrate to all nations our desire for brotherhood, fraternity, and international co-operation in all things affecting our common humanity. (Loud applause.)

Official Washington is watching developments in Ireland with great interest. It is perhaps not generally known that Frank P. Walsh, the astute labor attorney, is over in Ireland as confidential advisor to De Valera. He is evidently giving some good advice which is being followed. Lloyd-George has met his equals in both De Valera and Frank P. Walsh—and Lloyd-George is a very clever politician. Washington is deeply concerned over Mr. Lloyd-George's severe sickness.

THAT SIX DOLLAR ASSESSMENT.

By Adams, L. U. 829.

I have just received copy of circular letter sent out by the International Office notifying all members of a six dollar assessment to replenish the strike fund.

The writer has had various experience pertaining to the financial status of several labor organizations, particularly the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. I having been Treasurer of the local lodge for some seven or eight years, during my tenure of office the Admonsen eight hour law was passed, and I presume that all trade union people are reasonably familiar with the strenuous effort put forth by the four Transportation Brotherhoods to get the eight hour a day on the railroads. Just prior to this law being passed the general committees were in session continuously, which caused a very heavy expense on the rank and file of the membership. I have collected in one month $8.05, this being the largest assessment in one month but several assessments from $2.00 to $5.30, the firemen, engineers and conductors assessments were even larger than trainmen's. While their assessments in normal times is not as large as specified in this particular case, nevertheless their grievance assessments are considerably larger than those paid by the other industries, and particularly the shop crafts on the railroad. I have been a member of organized labor including the trainmen, for 20 consecutive years, having taken an active part during this entire time. I therefore feel that I am reasonably well versed on the subject under discussion. That is, the relative amount of money paid by the electricians as compared with other organizations.

As to this Six Dollar assessment I wish to state that it should be paid in its entirety by all members without protest. I make this statement after looking over the financial report as submitted to the last commission which shows a deficit of $145,000 in the strike benefit fund. We can not as an organization expect to function with any degree of efficiency without having the wherewithal to function with, which is of course money, or in other words we cannot expect something for nothing. It is absolutely impossible to assume the responsibility of the suspension of services without having adequate funds to pay the men a reasonable benefit for such suspension. Men who go out on strike are not doing this for fun but they are going out for a principle of which all working people are interested. That is, they receive relative benefits if they win, and relative non-benefits if they lose. It therefore is not a personal matter with the men out on strike, but should be a matter for all people who want to see the condition of the working people improved, to assume their equal share of the burden of bringing these issues to a successful conclusion.

Our great fault in the past has been that we were too envious of our fellow workmen or did not take enough interest in his welfare which is selfishness. We cared only for our particular locality and position at which we were working. This time has passed; if we ever expect to get any permanent benefits from our past efforts it is absolutely essential that we look at the labor movement from a national standpoint. We also must look at it not only from an industrial standpoint, but also from an economical and political standpoint. This was demonstrated very thoroughly during the last war, for every cent we received in increase of wages it was automatically taken away from us by the increased cost of commodities, the result being the high wages and high cost of living, running in a vicious cycle, with the employee not receiving any benefits from the increase in wages. This is from the economic standpoint. Past experience has shown us that whenever we get working conditions favorable to us that the politicians will immediately get laws passed, both state and national that will counterbalance anything that we have received from an industrial standpoint. This leaves us where we were prior to receiving this better condition. The only thing left for us to do is to get control of the economic and political condition of the country, if we ever expect to be anything but industrial serfs or slaves. Our condition is drifting to industrial or capitalistic feudalism. In the olden times working people were serfs from an industrial standpoint to their master. We have improved that system to what we call the wage system; capital has organized functioning through national organizations and has enslaved the working people, absolutely and in complete dominance of Wall street. This makes us capitalistic or industrial serfs. This not from a local but from a national standpoint.

Insofar as bettering our condition strictly from an industrial standpoint in the future, it is an impossibility. Let us function three ways, industrially, economically, and politically, using our industrial organizations to function through. By this method only can we ever hope to succeed. This can not be done at once, it will take a very slow process of intensive education by the intelligent element of organized labor, they sacrificing personal interests or having their personal desires always subordinate to the body politic. By this method only can we ever hope to succeed.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

From all the strength that comes from battling strife,
For all the good that rises out of care.
For all the power to meet the tests of
life,
That wait upon our pathways everywhere,
For Hearts all steeled against the Hosts of Wrong,

My voice in praise.

And thanks I'll raise.

In measure of a glad Thanksgiving Song.

For all the joys of Cheer and Brotherhood,

For all the beauties of the land and sea,
For all the bounteous gifts in things of good,

A Providence Divine hath granted me,
For chance to have my being for a day,

To Him above,

Great God of Love.

My thanks with heart and soul I'll sing, always!

GOVERNMENT STRIKE BREAKING AGENCY.

By Charles M. Kelley in Labor.

Strike-breaking is to be made a permanent government function under the direction of the Department of Commerce through an organization that has been perfected by Secretary Herbert Hoover.

Through the recently created Federal Emergency Organization for the Movement of Necessities in Case of a Strike, the whole power of government and the business organizations of the nation is to be turned against workers who are compelled to resort to extreme measures in defense of their interests. At the head of this organization has been placed E. G. Montgomery, as assistant to Chairman Hoover. C. C. Stetson is executive secretary.

The Federal Emergency Organization will maintain itself in skeleton form permanently. It will be ready on short notice at any time to state just what areas are short of food or fuels, and to direct the proper necessities to the districts threatened with shortage.

The former food administration is to be recruited and incorporated into this government-controlled and government-financed strike-breaking agency. Chambers of Commerce, Manufacturers' Associations, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, private detective agencies, corporation police forces and State political machinery will be used under the direction of the central authority at Washington.

Will Have Lists of Strikebreakers.

Lists of potential strike-breakers will be made and corrected periodically, that they may be available in an emergency. Should a strike happen anywhere in the country, the administration would bring into play the organization in the particular district affected, with the justification that it adversely affected the movement of some necessity, as must inevitably happen when industry is temporarily halted when a dispute between employer and employee reaches the strike stage.

In close touch with the national organization will be State bodies divided into numerous districts. Some of these State organizations have already been formed, notably in New England, where an association of governors forms a skeleton organization for emergency relief.

Within each district organization are several divisions, formed on the basis of commodities, among them the following: Breadstuff division, meat, livestock, dairy products, fruit and vegetables, coal and oil. A strike involving any of these commodities would immediately bring into action the proper division, which is expected to be thoroughly familiar with the strike-breaking resources of the district represented by it. This simplifies the work of the general governing body.

Rely on Motor Transportation.

One of the most important divisions is that of motor transport. Had the October 30 strike of railroad workers taken place trains of motor trucks would, according to officials of the Department of Commerce, been in extensive operation the following day. The Federal government, when the strike was pending, placed orders for thousands of flanged wheels, of standard railroad gauge, for the equipment of government army motor trucks, the plan being to place them on rails for the transportation of commodities.

Thousands of motor cars distributed to the several States by the War Department are to be re-equipped for strike duty, many of them being provided with standard flange wheels for use on railroad tracks. The motor transport section is expected to maintain a complete classification of these trucks, with such information as will make it possible to requisition them instantly for service if the government finds it necessary to break a strike of workers.

Through the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, and supported by leaders of Detroit industries, automobile men jumped at the opportunity to demonstrate the effectiveness of motor transportation in comparison to railroads. They were eager to prove their means of transportation in a time of test.

Will Draft Soldiers for Service.

The Federal organization maintains close liaison with the War Department, which has both transports and supplies available for distressed areas, and with the Shipping Board, which can reach most of the most populous centers in the country.

Among enlisted men and officers of the army are thousands of trained automobile drivers, and they are to be detached to strikebreaking service in the event the civilian organizations are unable to recruit the necessary number of strikebreakers. The Shipping Board also can supply several thousand workers when there is need of them.

Cities in which regional headquarters are maintained include New York, Boston, Chicago, Houston, San Francisco, Washington, Aberdeen, Seattle, Atlanta and Kansas City.

One of the aims of the organization is that of being prepared to keep the public informed regarding available supplies, of preventing panic and discouraging hoarding. For example, it was prepared—so Hoover's assistants claim—to assure the public that had the railway succeeded in operating 20 per cent the government would have been able to supply essential commodities for an indefinite period.

Won't Fear Complete Tieup.

In case of complete stoppage, the towns and cities outside the dense areas were to be secured for at least 60 days without difficulty, while even in the dense areas, which include New England, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, water and motor transport facilities of the government were said to be sufficient for a 60-day tieup before hardships set in.

This emergency organization was the "ace in the hole" frequently referred to by government officials during the late strike talk. Secretary Hoover, realizing the potentialities of the former food administration, started to recreate it just as soon as the strike order was issued, and feels that he would have been ready for any emergency. He liked his plan so well that he has determined to maintain it as a fixed adjunct of the Federal administration.

Officials of the Department of Commerce are willing to admit that they have comprehensive plans for handling strikes, but are not willing to go into details. They desire to leave the impression that the object in view is the protection of the "public" from the adverse effects of strikes, but the close cooperation they are getting from business organizations justifies a suspicion that in operation the machinery that has been built up is for an entirely different purpose.

ALLEN COURT WILL GET JUDICIAL TEST.

Gov. Allen's industrial court law of Kansas is at last to undergo a constitutional test. Announcement comes from headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America at Indianapolis that John T. Clarkson, former United States Senator from Iowa, has been retained to institute proceedings at once. Clarkson is counsel for the Iowa district of the miners. He will institute a suit in the Kansas courts on the ground that the industrial court law has injured union miners. A miner who has been punished by the operation of the law will probably be the plaintiff in the case.

The Kansas industrial court law establishes a system of labor peonage and forbids strikes. Gov. Allen promised that this law would be used to break that part of the railroad strike, if called, which fell in his State. It was for violation of the industrial court law that Alexander Howat and August Dorchy, president and vice president of the Kansas district miners union, were sentenced to six months in jail several weeks ago and are now serving these prison terms.

BANKERS WANT WORKERS CURBED.

National Investment bankers, in annual convention at New Orleans, devoted their attention very largely to a consideration of railway rates and wages, and finally adopted the program of the Association of Railway Executives advocating a reduction of wages, "that railroad securities may again become recognized investments of unquestioned integrity." Resolutions adopted also demanded that the Railroad Labor Board be abolished and its functions transferred to the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Adamson 8-hour law was denounced.

When the bankers were not worrying about the workers they were taking a fling at the soldiers of the late war, it being the final consensus of these profiteers that the government would commit an "egregious folly" if it gives any countenance to a soldiers' bonus bill.

Other demands were that taxes be taken off profiteers and placed upon the people in a sales tax. The assembled bankers seemed to be working under the impression that the war was fought and the government being maintained exclusively for their benefit. Perhaps they're right!
